TAKEN BY SURPRISE

Invaders Unprepared as Chinese Soldiers Launch Sudden Drive.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Feb. 25— Hammered all day long by a terrific Japanese bombardment, the Chinese army in the Kiangwan sector swarmed out of its trenches tonight, launching a surprising counter-attack, and won back nearly all the ground it had lost during the day.

In the afternoon the Japanese threw their full force on the handful of defenders northwest of Kiangwan village, beat back the Chinese first line and drove it into a disorderly retreat.

The attack swept forward around the village, ripped through the line and virtually surrounded the Kiangwan garrison.

The artillery pounded the Chinese second line and a fleet of 40 Japanese planes rained 250-pound bombs on the defenses.

Then the attack halted for a time while the heavy guns continued their withering fire on the Chinese rear.

Counter Attack a Surprise

The counter-attack appeared to have taken the Japanese by surprise, for it carried the Chinese back across the shell-torn ground and tonight Kiangwan was still in their hands.

There were reports that two to three Japanese divisions were due tomorrow or Saturday and that a big Japanese drive would begin early next week.

Dispatches from Tokyo disclosing that the emperor had talked with General Yoshinori Shirakawa was taken here to mean that he would supersede Kenkichi Yueda in command of the army at Shanghai.

Ammunition Arrives

While the battle was raging a Japanese transport arrived at the wharves of the international settlement, and the ammunition with which it was loaded was quickly transferred to trucks which dashed off toward Kingwan.

All of the international settlement showed considerable nervousness because of an attack by Japanese planes on the Lunghua railway station, two miles south of the concession. The inhabitants were fearful that "the Japanese would bomb the Lunghua arsenal, which was reported to contain enough explosives to smash every window in the international settlement.

Meanwhile, the southern front lines leading toward Chapel were quiet. The Japanese had moved all

"ARM LOCK" USED TO CAPTURE CROOK

Lack of Wrestling Skill Costly to Filkowski, Cleveland Fugitive.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—Joseph (Smiling Joe) Filkowski, Cleveland's public enemy No. 1, overlooked one angle of self-defense. That was the way to free himself from a wrestler's hold.

The mid-western gangster charged with killing Tony Veryk, a Cleveland contractor, yielded to arrest yesterday when an arm lock was applied by one of his native city detectives.

In another cell in police headquarters was placed Mrs. Mary Keck, 26, the mother of two children and Filkowski's reputed companion.

Jewelry Found

Known as "Mary Kraus," she was arrested in her apartment on Long Island last night. A search revealed jewelry estimated to be worth $75,000 and a sawed off shotgun, two revolvers and a goodly supply of ammunition.

Filkowski was cornered at the entrance of the Hotel Somerset on crowded west Forty-Seventh street. He attempted to draw his gun, but one of the officers clamped an arm lock around his throat and the others disarmed him.

The warrant upon which he was arrested specifically charges him with slaying Veryk and wounding two Cleveland officers. He was also sought for questioning about numerous robberies in Ohio, Michigan and Illinois.

MAN INJURED IN COLLISION

Richard Zachman in Hospital After Motorcycle-Auto Crash.

TWO CARS ARE DAMAGED

Victim Is Son of Mr. and Mrs. Cicero Z. Zachman of South Prospect Street.

Richard Zachman, 21, was injured in a motorcycle-automobile collision at noon today on south Main street. He was taken to City hospital in a semi-conscious condition after his motorcycle struck one machine, wrecking the front end, and skidded across the street and hit another car parked 50 feet away. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Z Zachman of south Prospect street.

The attending physician told attaches at the hospital that he did not believe Zachman's condition to be serious He was beginning to regain consciousness at 12:45 p. m. and the preliminary examination showed nothing but bad cuts and bruises. Although the examination did not reveal any broken bones, or injuries that the physician regarded as serious, it is probable that Zachman will be X-rayed the hospital reported.

The accident occurred at the alley at Trinity Baptist church. T. R. Sexton of Delaware, driver of the automobile, escaped injury.

Sexton said that he had pulled into the alley and was waiting for a lull in traffic to drive across the street to the Lautenslager Oldsmobile, Inc. garage.

Zachman, driving his motorcycle north, crashed into the Sexton car, almost demolishing the front of the car. The impact with the machine, sent the motorcycle skidding sharply across the street and into a parked car. The Sexton car was taken to the Haberman Chevrolet Co. garage.

Zachman was thrown from the motorcycle before it struck the second car. Sexton said that the force of the collision knocked him out of the seat of his car.

Zachman was nearly unconscious when he was taken to City hospital in the W. C. Boyd ambulance. The accident occurred within a block of the grocery store of his father, C. Z. Zachman of 184 south Main street.

LOCK PAIR IN VAULT; ESCAPE WITH $1,400

Cashier and Customer Are Imprisoned Twenty Minutes Before Freed.

SECOND SINCE JULY 10

Armed Men Enter Institution During Noon Hour; Search Under Way.

The Morral bank was robbed of approximately $1,400 shortly after noon today by two armed men who locked J. H. Bardon, cashier, and Clifford Wood, a customer, in the vault.

It was the second holdup for the bank in eight months. Last July 10 it was robbed of $2,260. Robert J. Wickham of Carey recently began a 25-year sentence in Ohio penitentiary as the leader in this holdup.

Bardon was alone in the bank during both holdups.

Today, he saw the men stop their automobile in front of the bank. One came to the door, which was locked, and compelled Bardon to unlock the door by threatening to shoot at him through the glass. The bank has been locked most of the time since the first holdup.

Bardon admitted the bandit, who forced him to lie down on the floor behind the cashier's cage, first forcing him to tell where the money was. Most of the money was taken from a safe.

At this juncture, Wood entered the bank to pay taxes. The second bandit, who had been waiting in the car, followed him into the bank and compelled him to lie on the floor beside Bardon.

When the men had taken all available money, they forced Bardon and Wood at the point of guns to enter the vault and lie on the floor. They locked the vault and left the bank, locking the door. They fled in a Whippet coach.

Maxine Morral, 17, walking past the bank, heard Wood and Bardon whistling to attract attention. She paused and heard their cries for help. She notified Mrs. Bardon, who unlocked the door and then called Lawrence Young. Young, Bardon's assistant, opened the vault and freed the imprisoned men.

Today's was the sixth bank holdup in the vicinity of Marion in the last eight months in which robbers have taken a total of $15,641. Banks robbed and the amount taken from each are Morral, two robberies, $2,260; Caledonia, $80; Farmers' Deposit bank at Richwood, $10,000; Green Camp, $800; Prospect, $861. The last two occurred in December.

Bardon and Wood were in serious danger of suffocation, remaining in the vault 20 minutes before they were discovered and freed. The vault is small, and was almost air-tight.

Although only a preliminary checkup had been made at 1 p. m. Young said he thought the loot would amount to between $1,200 and $1,400. The loss is insured.

John Washburn is president of the 25-year-old institution. Before the two robberies in the last eight months, the bank had never been robbed.

Former Convict Slain.

CANTON, O., Feb. 25—William "Bo" Farrell, 26, Negro, was shot to death by two policemen early today while attempting to flee from a store here following a burglary. Two companions of Farrell made their escape in a hail of bullets. Farrell was released from Mansfield reformatory in 1930 after having served more than two years of a one-to-twenty year sentence on a manslaughter charge.

Wife Opposed Sale of Farm; Discrepancies in Stories Are Revealed.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Feb. 25—The name of a woman entered the first degree murder trial of Roy E. Bowers here today as the prosecution introduced testimony seeking to establish a motive for the slaying of Mrs. Bowers.

Hundreds of spectators jammed the courtroom to hear the city's first murder trial since 1908. Spectators began arriving at 7 a. m., two hours before the third session of the hearing was scheduled to get under way. Many brought lunches.

Bowers was faced with financial difficulties and wanted his wife to sell their farm, it was revealed in the testimony of Charles D. Stubbs, manager of the Commercial Savings bank. The bank had loaned Bowers $4,500.

Borrowed from Woman

Bowers borrowed money from Mrs. Pearl Bailey, a Michigan resident, on two occasions, it was revealed by Stubbs. Stubbs told of a conversation with Bowers in the jail in which the indicted man told that Mrs. Bailey and his wife were not on good terms. Bowers said at that time that he had not corresponded with Mrs. Bailey since May, 1931. Stubbs said he understood that Mrs. Bailey was considered wealthy. Bowers admitted drilling a hole through the partition of the stable where Mrs. Bowers was found slain, he said. The prosecution maintains the fatal shot was fired through this hole.

Charles E. Read and L. M. Newcomer, local newspaper editors who talked with Bowers on several occasions, told of the conflicting stories related by Bowers.

Bowers told Read that he found the gun in the manger and that there were no strings attached to it, the latter testified.

Newcomer said he heard Bowers say on Dec. 3 that he found the gun sticking in the hole in the partition. Bowers told Newcomer that he had not had a quarrel with his wife the morning of her death.

Larry Martz, deputy sheriff and finger print expert, brought out other discrepancies in Bowers' early stories. Martz said Bowers asked if any finger prints had been found and suggested that they might have been licked off by the

CAMPBELL WILL TRY FOR FASTER RECORD

Englishman Shatters Speed Mark, but Thinks Car Can Beat 253 Miles an Hour.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb 25—Three new automobile speed records established by Sir Malcolm Campbell, 47-year-old Englishman, are unsatisfactory to him and he prepared to try to better them today.

Sir Malcolm Campbell

Streaking down the beach yesterday under none too favorable conditions, Campbell broke his own previous marks by driving the mile at 253.968 miles an hour, the kilometer at 251.340 and the five kilometers at 241.969 miles an hour.

His twelve-cylinder car was clocked over one five-mile distance at 244.200 miles an hour but timing equipment broke down on his run and he was not allowed that record.

On his first run Campbell was clocked over the measured mile at 267.459 miles an hour. His second trial was timed at 241.773 miles an hour. The average of 253.968 miles an hour.

The new record for the mile exceeded by 8.235 miles an hour the mark of 245.733 he established in the same car last year. His previous average for the kilometer, approximately 2,000 feet less than a mile, was 240.086.

For the five kilometers his old mark was 216.048 miles an hour.

A strong head wind, Campbell said, hampered his trials yesterday, adding that if the wind subsides by low tide today he should be able to boost all his records by a wide margin.

Low tide today occurs at about 4:10 p. m. (Marion time.)

ARRAIGNED ON FIRST DEGREE

Sanders Admits Part in Holdup, but Denies Guilt in DeCliff Slaying.

BOTH HELD WITHOUT BOND

Confessed Gunman Is Bound Over to Grand Jury This Morning.

William Carter, 18, Negro, pleaded guilty to a charge of murdering Green G. Miller, 73, at his DeCliff grocery last Jan. 1 when Carter and his companion, Charles Sanders, 32, were arraigned in municipal court this morning.

Carter was bound over to the grand jury without bond, and was taken back to the county jail to await action of the grand jury.

Sanders pleaded not guilty when the first degree murder charge was read to him. He explained that he did no shooting, and therefore denied the murder charge, but admitted taking part in the attempted grocery holdup in which Miller was shot.

Sets Hearing for Monday

Judge William R. Martin accepted his plea as not guilty, and set his preliminary hearing for Monday. Sanders also is held without bond in his cell in the city prison.

Murder charges against the two charging them with the murder of the aged grocer while attempting to perpetrate a robbery of his store were signed by Deputy Sheriff Chester A. Cosgrove.

Carter rose to his feet with difficulty to hear the charge read, suffering yet from a sever abdominal bullet wound inflicted in a gun duel with R. E. Kemp, Newark grocer, during an attempted grocery robbery in that city Jan. 2. He remained standing while County Prosecutor R. M. Wilhelm read the charge.

"Do you understand the charge?" Judge Martin asked.

"Yes, sir," Carter replied.

"What is your plea—guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty," Carter answered in low tones.

Sanders Nervous

Sanders was surprised and nervous when he heard the first degree murder charge read. He was confused apparently not understanding the law which makes him, as an accomplice in the holdup during which Miller was killed, as guilty as Carter, who admitted firing the shot.

Both Negroes have given detailed confessions of their parts in the attempted holdup and murder and have admitted that they held up a Kenton grocery the day before the DeCliff murder.

Sanders "fixed" an alibi to protect himself immediately upon his return to Columbus from DeCliff, authorities said today. He instructed several persons at a boarding house in Columbus where he had been staying to swear that he was in Columbus all day Jan. 1. When he was brought to Marion several weeks [illegible] questioning in connection with the murder, he instructed [illegible]

French Women Hopeful in Fight for Suffrage

By The Associated Press

PARIS — One hundred thousand women of France have begun a new drive for suffrage with a system of "persuasion" designed to break down the last vestige of opposition in the senate.

Public demonstrations, street picketing and riots they have tabooed as "beneath the dignity of French womanhood and of France."

Their aim is to convert quietly, one by one, a dozen or more of the 22 senators who block their acquisition of the vote.

Foremost in their ranks, which include the most aristocratic women of France, are the Comtesse de Fels and her daughter, the young and beautiful Duchesse de La Roche-foucauld, president of the National Union for Votes for Women

Active in Campaign

Recently the duchess presided at a meeting stressing the "advantage to France of the feminine vote" and not long ago she made a plea for women's suffrage before the feminist group of the senate.

"We do not stand for extreme ideas," she told The Associated Press "But we feel that we have the right to vote and we believe that, when we have gained it, we can do much to improve our country

"The improvement of sanitary conditions in municipal and country communities, the protection of motherhood and the property rights of women, the regulation of conditions under which women work and the improvement of educational facilities are all fields in which women are actively interested. Through their vote they should be able to contribute much to the betterment of the country they love"

The protection of women's property rights is one of the chief points stressed by French feminists. Under the Code Napoleon, still in effect, married women in France relinquish all property rights.

Their campaign has received new impetus with the prospect that the bill giving all French women over 25 the right to vote will come before the senate the present session after having been shelved for six years.

It has been passed twice by the chamber of deputies and when last voted on by the senate was defeated on a technical maneuver by only 22 votes.

That majority feminists hope to defeat by their campaign on "peaceful penetration." Their chief support in the senate is Louis Martin, leader of the group favoring women's suffrage.

CHINESE REGAIN LOST GROUND IN COUNTER-ATTACK

David and Goliath, Asiatic Of $83.70, He Got 75 Cents Last Some Good News War, Says Murray

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE DAVID AND GOLIATH fight goes on in Asia with Japan as David, but there is a difference, however. The Asiatic Goliath refuses to lie down and die.

A wise American says, "I don't think Japan will have the easy time she expected. Her first wars were too easy. She went through China like a knife through soft cheese, when China was busy absorbing opium forced on her by a 'Christian nation.'"

She went through Russia with ease when Russian Grand Dukes and others in charge, for the Czar, drank more champagne in three months than the rest of the world drank in two years.

China has had warlike exercise in her many internal fights of late, and many Japanese will never return from Shanghai or Manchuria.

THE SAME WISE PERSON remarked, "the Japanese will find themselves in financial difficulties."

Three things count in war, intelligence, courage, cash.

Japan has plenty of the first two, not much of the third.

"Japan has little or no gold left. And you can't finance war on paper money. Japan's main asset is the silkworm and that, with low prices and the Chinese boycott, doesn't amount to much now."

That is too gloomy a view of Japan's resources and wealth, which have grown gigantically since the Meiji era. Besides, when Alexander the Great attacked Persia, the richest country in the world then, he was "as poor as Job's turkey."

China will be disappointed if she depends on Japan's poverty.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO be a farmer and raise lambs for a living? A farmer sold seven lambs to a Chicago packing house, total price $3. Insurance, commission and inspection charges cost $2.25. The farmer got 75 cents net for his seven lambs.

The department of agriculture, thanks to Secretary Hyde, investigated, and learned that consumers paid for the seven lambs $83.70. Remember, that the farmer got 75 cents of that amount as his share.

Senator Capper of Kansas put that information on the front of his "Capper's Weekly," that goes to half a million farmers. How do you think they feel? The country is cursed with inefficient, costly distribution, while production goes on, without limit, and we have too much of everything, from sugar to

Invaders Unprepared as Chinese Soldiers Launch Sudden Drive.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Feb. 25— Hammered all day long by a terrific Japanese bombardment, the Chinese army in the Kiangwan sector swarmed out of its trenches tonight, launching a surprising counter-attack, and won back nearly all the ground it had lost during the day.

In the afternoon the Japanese threw their full force on the handful of defenders northwest of Kiangwan village, beat back the Chinese first line and drove it into a disorderly retreat.

The attack swept forward around the village, ripped through the line and virtually surrounded the Kiangwan garrison.

The artillery pounded the Chinese second line and a fleet of 40 Japanese planes rained 250-pound bombs on the defenses.

Then the attack halted for a time while the heavy guns continued their withering fire on the Chinese rear.

Counter Attack a Surprise

The counter-attack appeared to have taken the Japanese by surprise, for it carried the Chinese back across the shell-torn ground and tonight Kiangwan was still in their hands.

There were reports that two to three Japanese divisions were due tomorrow or Saturday and that a big Japanese drive would begin early next week.

Dispatches from Tokyo disclosing that the emperor had talked with General Yoshinori Shirakawa was taken here to mean that he would supersede Kenkichi Yueda in command of the army at Shanghai.

Ammunition Arrives

While the battle was raging a Japanese transport arrived at the wharves of the international settlement, and the ammunition with which it was loaded was quickly transferred to trucks which dashed off toward Kingwan.

All of the international settlement showed considerable nervousness because of an attack by Japanese planes on the Lunghua railway station, two miles south of the concession. The inhabitants were fearful that "the Japanese would bomb the Lunghua arsenal, which was reported to contain enough explosives to smash every window in the international settlement.

Meanwhile, the southern front lines leading toward Chapei were quiet. The Japanese had moved all

"ARM LOCK" USED TO CAPTURE CROOK

Lack of Wrestling Skill Costly to Filkowski, Cleveland Fugitive.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—Joseph (Smiling Joe) Filkowski, Cleveland's public enemy No. 1, overlooked one angle of self-defense. That was the way to free himself from a wrestler's hold.

The mid-western gangster charged with killing Tony Veryk, a Cleveland contractor, yielded to arrest yesterday when an arm lock was applied by one of his native city detectives.

In another cell in police headquarters was placed Mrs. Mary Keck, 26, the mother of two children and Filkowski's reputed companion.

Jewelry Found

Known as "Mary Kraus," she was arrested in her apartment on Long Island last night. A search revealed jewelry estimated to be worth $75,000 and a sawed off shotgun, two revolvers and a goodly supply of ammunition.

Filkowski was cornered at the entrance of the Hotel Somerset on crowded west Forty-Seventh street. He attempted to draw his gun, but one of the officers clamped an arm lock around his throat and the others disarmed him.

MAN INJURED IN COLLISION

Richard Zachman in Hospital After Motorcycle-Auto Crash.

TWO CARS ARE DAMAGED

Victim Is Son of Mr. and Mrs. Cicero Z. Zachman of South Prospect Street.

Richard Zachman, 21, was injured in a motorcycle-automobile collision at noon today on south Main street. He was taken to City hospital in a semi-conscious condition after his motorcycle struck one machine, wrecking the front end, and skidded across the street and hit another car parked 50 feet away. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Z Zachman of south Prospect street.

The attending physician told attaches at the hospital that he did not believe Zachman's condition to be serious He was beginning to regain consciousness at 12:45 p. m. and the preliminary examination showed nothing but bad cuts and bruises. Although the examination did not reveal any broken bones, or injuries that the physician regarded as serious, it is probable that Zachman will be X-rayed the hospital reported.

The accident occurred at the alley at Trinity Baptist church. T. R. Sexton of Delaware, driver of the automobile, escaped injury.

Sexton said that he had pulled into the alley and was waiting for a lull in traffic to drive across the street to the Lautenslager Oldsmobile, Inc. garage.

Zachman, driving his motorcycle north, crashed into the Sexton car, almost demolishing the front of the car. The impact with the machine, sent the motorcycle skidding sharply across the street and into a parked car. The Sexton car was taken to the Haberman Chevrolet Co. garage.

Zachman was thrown from the motorcycle before it struck the second car. Sexton said that the force of the collision knocked him out of the seat of his car.

Zachman was nearly unconscious when he was taken to City hospital in the W. C. Boyd ambulance. The accident occurred within a block of the grocery store of his father, C. Z. Zachman of 184 south Main street.

LOCK PAIR IN VAULT; ESCAPE WITH $1,400

Cashier and Customer Are Imprisoned Twenty Minutes Before Freed.

SECOND SINCE JULY 10

Armed Men Enter Institution During Noon Hour; Search Under Way.

The Morral bank was robbed of approximately $1,400 shortly after noon today by two armed men who locked J. H. Bardon, cashier, and Clifford Wood, a customer, in the vault.

It was the second holdup for the bank in eight months. Last July 10 it was robbed of $2,260. Robert J. Wickham of Carey recently began a 25-year sentence in Ohio penitentiary as the leader in this holdup.

Bardon was alone in the bank during both holdups.

Today, he saw the men stop their automobile in front of the bank. One came to the door, which was locked, and compelled Bardon to unlock the door by threatening to shoot at him through the glass. The bank has been locked most of the time since the first holdup.

Bardon admitted the bandit, who forced him to lie down on the floor behind the cashier's cage, first forcing him to tell where the money was. Most of the money was taken from a safe.

At this juncture, Wood entered the bank to pay taxes. The second bandit, who had been waiting in the car, followed him into the bank and compelled him to lie on the floor beside Bardon.

When the men had taken all available money, they forced Bardon and Wood at the point of guns to enter the vault and lie on the floor. They locked the vault and left the bank, locking the door. They fled in a Whippet coach.

Maxine Morral, 17, walking past the bank, heard Wood and Bardon whistling to attract attention. She paused and heard their cries for help. She notified Mrs. Bardon, who unlocked the door and then called Lawrence Young. Young, Bardon's assistant, opened the vault and freed the imprisoned men.

Today's was the sixth bank holdup in the vicinity of Marion in the last eight months in which robbers have taken a total of $15,641. Banks robbed and the amount taken from each are Morral, two robberies, $2,260; Caledonia, $80; Farmers' Deposit bank at Richwood, $10,000; Green Camp, $800; Prospect, $861. The last two occurred in December.

Bardon and Wood were in serious danger of suffocation, remaining in the vault 20 minutes before they were discovered and freed. The vault is small, and was almost air-tight.

Although only a preliminary checkup had been made at 1 p. m. Young said he thought the loot would amount to between $1,200 and $1,400. The loss is insured.

John Washburn is president of the 25-year-old institution. Before the two robberies in the last eight months, the bank had never been robbed.

Former Convict Slain.

CANTON, O., Feb. 25—William "Bo" Farrell, 26, Negro, was shot to death by two policemen early today while attempting to flee from a store here following a burglary. Two companions of Farrell made their escape in a hail of bullets. Farrell was released from Mansfield reformatory in 1930 after having served more than two years of a one-to-twenty year sentence on a manslaughter charge.

Wife Opposed Sale of Farm; Discrepancies in Stories Are Revealed.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Feb. 25—The name of a woman entered the first degree murder trial of Roy E. Bowers here today as the prosecution introduced testimony seeking to establish a motive for the slaying of Mrs. Bowers.

Hundreds of spectators jammed the courtroom to hear the city's first murder trial since 1908. Spectators began arriving at 7 a. m., two hours before the third session of the hearing was scheduled to get under way. Many brought lunches.

Bowers was faced with financial difficulties and wanted his wife to sell their farm, it was revealed in the testimony of Charles D. Stubbs, manager of the Commercial Savings bank. The bank had loaned Bowers $4,500.

Borrowed from Woman

Bowers borrowed money from Mrs. Pearl Bailey, a Michigan resident, on two occasions, it was revealed by Stubbs. Stubbs told of a conversation with Bowers in the jail in which the indicted man told that Mrs. Bailey and his wife were not on good terms. Bowers said at that time that he had not corresponded with Mrs. Bailey since May, 1931. Stubbs said he understood that Mrs. Bailey was considered wealthy. Bowers admitted drilling a hole through the partition of the stable where Mrs. Bowers was found slain, he said. The prosecution maintains the fatal shot was fired through this hole.

Charles E. Read and L. M. Newcomer, local newspaper editors who talked with Bowers on several occasions, told of the conflicting stories related by Bowers.

Bowers told Read that he found the gun in the manger and that there were no strings attached to it, the latter testified.

Newcomer said he heard Bowers say on Dec. 3 that he found the gun sticking in the hole in the partition. Bowers told Newcomer that he had not had a quarrel with his wife the morning of her death.

Larry Martz, deputy sheriff and finger print expert, brought out other discrepanciesin Bowers' early stories. Martz said Bowers asked if any finger prints had been found and suggested that they might have been licked off by the

Englishman Shatters Speed Mark, but Thinks Car Can Beat 253 Miles an Hour.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25—Three new automobile speed records established by Sir Malcolm Campbell, 47-year-old Englishman, are unsatisfactory to him and he prepared to try to better them today.

Sir Malcolm Campbell

Streaking down the beach yesterday under none too favorable conditions, Campbell broke his own previous marks by driving the mile at 253.968 miles an hour, the kilometer at 251.340 and the five kilometers at 241.569 miles an hour.

His twelve-cylinder car was clocked over one five-mile distance at 244.200 miles an hour but timing equipment broke down on his run and he was not allowed that record.

On his first run Campbell was clocked over the measured mile at 267.459 miles an hour. His second trial was timed at 241.773 miles an hour. The average of 253.968 miles an hour.

The new record for the mile exceeded by 8.235 miles an hour the mark of 245.733 he established in the same car last year. His previous average for the kilometer, approximately 2,000 feet less than a mile, was 240.086.

For the five kilometers his old mark was 216.045 miles an hour.

A strong head wind, Campbell said, hampered his trials yesterday, adding that if the wind subsides by low tide today he should be able to boost all his records by a wide margin.

Low tide today occurs at about 4:10 p. m. (Marion time.)

The resolution calling for the indorsement of Hoover and Mouser was introduced by P. H. Wieland of Mt. Gilead and seconded by R. O Parrott of Bucyrus.

The resolution said, in part, "We take this means of again pledging our wholehearted support to the great leader of our national party, Herbert Hoover, and give him our unqualified vote of confidence and instruct those here chosen to represent us, to vote for his renomination and reelection." Regarding Congressman Mouser, the resolution stated that "Our representative in the congress has loyally supported the President during this trying period, and with him sought to stabilize conditions through the application of sane policies and principles, and has shown by his [illegible] and vote his [illegible] ability to represent this district. "OLD TIMER" DINNER PLANNED BY SCOUTS Invitations Sent to 150 Former Troop Members and Leaders.

Invitations were sent out today to 150 former Boy Scouts and scout leaders and present scout leaders of the Harding area to attend an "Old Timers" banquet Thursday at 6:30 p. m. at the First Reformed church.

Good fellowship will be the main purpose of the get-together, planned in recognition of men with years of scouting behind them but who have lost contact in recent years.

Cards sent with the invitations are to be returned to scout headquarters in the Y. M. C. A. so the number to attend may be estimated. All former scouts or scout leaders not receiving invitations are urged to inform scout headquarters, as it is desired to have all attend.

The program is being arranged with a minimum of speeches planned, with the exception of volunteer remarks. Wilbur H. Symes, area commissioner, will preside as toastmaster. Symes is a veteran scout and one of the two men to receive the silver beaver award from the national council at the annual area meeting last December.

Part of the program will be devoted to the singing of campfire songs and other reminiscences of scouting days. An attempt is being made to have as many as possible of the old timers sit together in their original troop formation.

The exact number to attend cannot yet be estimated, scout officials said, but is expected to be between 50 and 100.

By Saving Life, Physicians Aid in Solving Murder Case

Surgeons and physicians at the Newark City hospital unconsciously played an important part in the solution of the Green Miller murder at DeCliff last New Year's day.

Had their skill not saved the life of William Carter, 18-year-old Negro, the solution of the crime probably would have died with him.

The solution remained a mystery until Tuesday when Carter recovered sufficiently to talk to authorities. For more than five weeks, the true story of the murder was untold while Carter fought a battle with death. For several days, little hope for his recovery was held.

Details of the shooting remained unknown because of an almost supernatural ability of Charles Sanders, 32, companion of Carter, to avoid identification, Edward Schmidt, 40, only eye-witness to the Miller murder, could not definitely identify Sanders. Neither could a Fostoria grocer, whose store Sanders and Carter are suspected of robbing.

Sanders was brought to Marion several weeks ago when authorities first suspected that he and Carter figured in the DeCliff murder. Sanders defied every effort of officials to pin the crime on him, and was turned back to Newark authorities for prosecution in connection with the shooting and attempted holdup in which the two Negroes had figured. It was in this holdup that Carter was wounded.

Carter talked readily and admitted firing the fatal shots when he had recovered sufficiently to leave the hospital.

His wound was inflicted by R. E. Kemp, the Newark grocer who resisted the Negroes' attempt to hold up his store Jan. 9. Kemp inflicted a serious wound on Carter, and escaped from the gun duel with only a minor wound.

Carter's confession corroborates statements of D. L. Cowles of Cleveland, state ballistic expert, who stated that bullets which killed Green Miller and wounded Kemp were fired from the same gun. Carter told police he used the same gun both times.

Lump of Clay as Christmas Present Starts Lad on Promising Art Career

Charles Fairbanks, 14, Shows Talent as Sculptor; Started Work at 5.

A [illegible] of modeling clay, found [illegible] Christmas gifts of a [illegible] boy, struck a responsive chord in the artistic nature [illegible] who nine years later, [illegible] promise of becoming a [illegible] note.

[illegible] Fairbanks, 14, of 244 [illegible] Greenwood street, is the [illegible] first glimpsed the beauty [illegible] a small lump of clay [illegible] presents from his father, [illegible] W. Fairbanks.

[illegible] years of modeling have developed the boy's ability another [illegible] degree. Less than a month [illegible] he made his first plaster cast [illegible] of his models, and his [illegible] collection now includes [illegible] executed skull, finished in [illegible] green, shadowed with gold, [illegible] pig and several placques, [illegible] particularly good likeness of [illegible]

Copies Famous Work

[illegible] latest project is perhaps [illegible] most difficult. "The Discus [illegible]" famous work of art is [illegible] interesting to him because of the [illegible] fine gracefulness and muscular development of the figure, and is now taking form on his workship table at his home.

Charles' work has been highly praised by visiting artists. All have agreed, enthusiastically, that he has a talent that if developed, will some day be his means of livelihood.

Mrs. Annetta Johnson Saint-Gaudens of Cornish, N. H., sister-in-law of the late Augustus Saint-Gaudens, and herself an artist of wide note, saw and talked with Charles much of the time she was here a year ago. She remarked many times that she saw great possibilities in Charles' career.

When Prof. Erwin F. Frey of Ohio State university spoke here last February, Charles arranged an exhibit of his work. Professor Frey was so pleased with his work that he asked Charles to be his guest at his studio.

"Charles does better work than many of my senior students at Ohio State university who are majoring in the arts," Professor Frey said after viewing the exhibit.

Makes Place Models

Miss Mary Elizabeth Cook of Columbus and New York City spoke highly of his work when she visited here on two occasions. Charles modeled 80 figures for place favors at a dinner at which Miss Cook spoke here. The following morning Miss Cook visited with him more than an hour at his home.

An apple was the first thing Charles made with that first lump of clay. Since then he has made hundreds of figures, both of the human form and of animal life. His early delight was in modeling delicate sea nymphs, dancers poised on tip-toe, and slight, airy figures. Or, among his early pieces may be found elephants, done in miniature, a pair of Sebright bantams, a bear, and many other models of animals.

Within the last three years he has devoted his time to heavier work. Among his best-loved pieces is a bust of his great-aunt, Mrs. Rose Marrer of Cleveland, a remarkable likeness, the family agrees. Another of his pieces is a figure of Sophocles, and a large bust of Mozart. The Mozart bust and several smaller pieces were made with hard clay, which requires particular skill in manipulating.

His mother, who is interested in this talent of her son's for which there is no accounting in the family history, is anxious that he go on with his sculpturing, and as he grows older, find the particular field in which he will be most satisfied.

Not a Hobby.

Sculpturing, with Charles, is not a hobby, nor is it a pastime. His hobby is pets, and to prove it he shows a pair of five alligators, his Sebright bantams and dogs. His pastimes are baseball and swimming.

It is difficult for the onlooker to classify this work in which Charles is so wrapped up. He is an honor student in the seventh grade at Vernon Heights Junior High school. The usual story of an artist, or an embryo artist, is that, adept at his art, he is uninterested in his studies.

Charles has an unusual sense of proportion and line. When he is working at something difficult, he will sit for half an hour, rapidly molding with sensitive fingers, and then leave abruptly, to go outside with his pets for a while.

When he returns, he has an entirely new perspective of his work he says, and is able to see clearly the faults of his model. Some days he works before school in the morning, at the lunch hour and after school, but occasionally there comes a day when he leaves his modeling clay lay uninterested for the time being. Other times he works furiously. His Santa Claus placque, made at Christmas time, was modelled in 10 minutes.

Kenneth Kinsler of Agosta, student at the Columbus Art school, taught him the art of plaster casting, and Herman McNeil of New York City, well known in art circles, taught him to make the wire framework for his larger figures.

Charles plans to take up drawing, and later, anatomy, but he will not be "rushed" into a career as a sculptor by his family. He will be given his own way in choosing his career.

SPARKS ON ROOFS CAUSE 2 FIRES

Fires on dry shingle roofs gave firemen two runs yesterday afternoon. At the home of L. D. Howell of 193 Senate street, fire was discovered on the roof for the second time in five days. Saturday firemen were called to the Howell home to extinguish a roof fire and yesterday afternoon neighbors again discovered the roof on fire. As in the case of the first fire, the loss was confined to a few shingles.

At 3:30 p. m. yesterday firemen from the central station answered a call from the home of H. E. Cornwell of 156 True avenue, where sparks from a chimney set fire to the shingle roof. The blaze was put out with several buckets of water with a $5 loss.

Mild Winter Cheaper.

LANSING, Mich.—The mild winter that has befallen Michigan has had its advantages to the state government as well as to residents of the state. According to B. C. Tiney, maintenance engineer of the highway department, $185,000 has been saved to Feb. 1 by the lack of deep snowfalls. Should the mild winter continue Tiney predicted the state would profit by $500,000.

FILES ANSWER IN FORECLOSURE SUIT

Whether a mortgage given by A. W. Jones on property he inherited from his father, A. J. Jones, is valid in view of a provision of the father's will providing that the property should not be sold, traded or disposed of by A. W. Jones but should continue in the possession of the family is the question raised in an answer filed in common pleas court today by A. W. Jones in the foreclosure action brought against him by the LaRue Banking Co.

The bank brought the action to collect approximately $35,000 on a mortgage of 140 acres of land near LaRue. The greater part of the land was inherited by Jones, subject to the provisions of the will, according to J. W. Jacoby, counsel for Jones.

CARDS, DANCING HIT IN REVIVAL SERMON

Six Respond to Altar Call at Calvary Evangelical Church Service.

"If He is not your Shepherd, you will not see harm in cards, dancing, shows or any of the things the world has to offer. No one is a real soul winner who goes to the dance, plays cards or attends shows," Mrs. Edna Beougher Hughes declared last night at Calvary Evangelical church in her sermon from the text, "The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want."

Six persons responded to the altar call.

"We are all wrong today when we say we have to do certain things to hold the young people; that we have to entertain them," she said. Her sermon in part follows:

"It is the most wonderful thing in the world to be able to say "The Lord Is My Shepherd." The trouble with us is that too many of us have been shifting this business of religion. It is strictly a personal matter.

"There is a way that we can tell if He is our Shepherd. If He is your Shepherd, in the first place, you will not want for rest. In the second place if He is your Shepherd you will not want for a guide, for He will lead you. In the third place, if He is not your Shepherd, you will not see any harm in cards, dancing, shows or anything that the world has to offer.

"In the fourth place, if He is your Shepherd, you need not want for joy. The only one who has a right to wear a broad smile is the Christian. If you have the Lord as your Shepherd now, He will not forsake you in 'the valley of the shadow of death.'"

Her sermon tonight at 7:30 will be on the subject, "Three Imminent Appearings of Jesus Christ."

MOTIVE FOR BARN MURDER IS SET UP

Wealthy Michigan Woman Named in Trial at Upper Sandusky Courtroom.

cows. Bowers later admitted wiping off the gun with a sack, Martz said. On another occasion, Martz said, Bowers told him that he found strings fastened to the gun.

The remainder of the deputy's testimony regarded the technical side of taking finger prints and tests made with a gun at the scene of the shooting.

Dr. O. C. Stutz was the first witness called by the state Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Stutz, who examined the body of Mrs. Bowers, explained to the jury the nature of the wound. He told that no powder burns could be found on her head. He said that Mr. and Mrs. Bowers had been in his office the week before her death and that he had treated her for trouble in her right shoulder. It was neuritis or rheumatism and made it impossible for her to raise her right arm.

Tells of Woman

Mrs. Grace Everhart, wife of Elmer Everhart, was next called to the stand. The Everhart home is a short distance north and west of the Bowers residence. She told of his coming to her house on Nov. 18 between 8:30 and 9 a. m. and rushing in the house said that his wife was dead and that he wanted a doctor quick. She went to the Bowers home with Elmer Everhart and Mrs. W. H. Everhart.

She described conditions in the barn and identified the exhibits of the state. The witness testified that Bowers said he did not know how it happened, but that a gun had been kept in the barn to shoot stray cats that had been getting in the milk. He also said the gun might have fallen from a crosspiece in front of the manger, and that it might have been an accident. He also said, "I don't know why she did it." She said that Bowers had received communications from Mrs. Pearl Bailey, a resident in Michigan. On one occasion the message was a telegram given over the telephone, Mrs. Everhart said.

Elmer Everhart described the events of the morning of Nov. 18. Mr. Everhart saw Roy Bowers getting the cows from the field about 8 a. m and that he was called to the Bowers home about 9 a. m. Witness told of seeing Pearl Bailey a couple of times at the Bowers farm.

No Improper Conduct

On cross-examination witness said that he saw no improper conduct on the part of either Bowers or Pearl Bailey when he saw them together. He said that no one made an examination of the barn on the morning of the shooting to see if anyone but neighbors were there but that an examination was made in the afternoon.

Sheriff Lawrence Weatherholtz was the fourth state witness to be examined during the afternoon. He told of going to the Bowers home on the afternoon of Nov. 18 and inquired for Mr. Bowers, who was shaving at the time. Bowers accompanied the sheriff to the barn and told him that he had taken some milk to the house and when he returned he found that his wife had been shot. Bowers also said that he didn't believe he had seen the gun all summer and that he didn't believe his wife had killed herself, that it must have been an accident.

The sheriff next told of seeing Bowers on the night of Nov. 19 at the home of his son, George Bowers, who then resided southeast of Sycamore, at which time he was arrested. At this time there was conversation about letters Bowers had received from Pearl Bailey and which came to the home of his son. Bowers told the sheriff a party was coming in from Michigan and asked him to go to the bus station and meet this person. He did not tell the sheriff who this was.

The sheriff told of many conversations that he had with Bowers while he was confined in the county jail. In the course of one of these conversations he told the sheriff that he took the gun out of the hole in the partition and put it into the manger and that he cut the holes in the partition above the manger. On one occasion a gun, not belonging to Bowers, was shown him and he threw his hands over his face and said, "Take it away, Take it away, I can't stand it."

OHIO ASKS CUSTODY OF ALLEGED ROBBER

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25—Governor White today issued requisition papers for the return of Turner "Wild Bill" Boyd to Tiffin from Chattanooga, Tenn. Boyd is wanted for participation in the robbery of the New Riegel State bank at New Riegel, O., of 1,498 on Feb. 13.

Boyd was implicated by Willis Kerlin, of Fort Seneca, and Tom Dooily, of Lynchburg, Va., who were previously captured. They said he confessed aiding in the robbery.

Kerlin and Dooley were captured while fleeing from the holdup, when their automobile hit a farm wagon.

artillery, machine gun and infantry from the area east of Kingwan to support the attack on the north.

Dead, Wounded Cared For

As the battle ranged, large numbers of Japanese dead and wounded were brought out of the front lines but it was stated that most of them would not be picked up until the engagement was ended.

United States officials in the international settlement said they would soon announce a plan by which Americans could be concentrated quickly for evacuation in an emergency. Americans in Hongkew, chief target for the Chinese artillery, were warned a few days ago to evacuate that section and most of them complied.

Japanese consular officials said Chinese snipers continued to take an additional Japanese military toll.

Patrols within Hongkew were continuing their attempts to eradicate the snipers, they said, but were experiencing great difficulty.

Today's battle began after threat of a Chinese offensive to block the landing of additional troops from Japan. In face of that threat, the Japanese gathered their forces for the most powerful attack of which they were capable.

Action Starts Early in Day

The first movements were made with the break of day. Big guns were moved forward and 12 whippet tanks took up positions. As soon as the morning haze cleared sufficiently for visibility the guns began to roar and the tanks plowed forward. In a short time, airplanes whirred overhead. Japanese headquarters seethed with activity. Apparently preparing for any eventuality, soldiers threw up entrenchments about the headquarters and machine guns bristled in all directions.

Germans Leave Hongkew Sector

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Feb. 25—Germany's diplomatic representatives here evacuated their consulate tonight in the face of the possibility that the Chinese army would shell the Hongkew sector.

They were the first foreign diplomats to withdraw following a warning that the Hongkew sector was dangerous for foreigners as long as it continued to be used as a Japanese military base.

TWO IN HOSPITAL AFTER AUTO CRASH

Two Cars Collide at Intersection of North Main and George Streets.

Two persons were taken to the City hospital and another was arrested on a reckless driving charge as the result of an automobile accident at the intersection of north State and George streets, last night. Myron Gruber, 18, of R. F. D. No. 6 Marion and Miss LaVern Holland, 18, of near Waldo, were taken to the hospital suffering from cuts and bruises and Harry Adams, 18, Negro, of 473 north Greenwood street was arrested. He was later released to the custody of his father for his appearance in court today.

Police said today that Adams, driving west on George street, failed to stop at State and crashed into the side of the machine being driven by Gruber and which was going north on State. Both cars were badly damaged. One wheel of the Gruber car was torn off and the side of the body caved in. Gruber received two deep cuts on the face and Miss Holland suffered minor cuts about the forehead. They were taken to the hospital in the C. E. Curtis Co. ambulance. Both cars were taken to the garage of the McDaniel Motor Co. on west Center street.

IS DESPERATE GUNMAN

Filkowski's Reputation Caused Death of Innocent Cleveland Man.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 25 — So great was "Smiling Joe" Filkowski's reputation for desperate gunmanship that one Cleveland detective killed an innocent man 14 months ago because the latter, resembling the desperado, put his hand in an overcoat pocket as the officer approached.

The slain man was Joseph Fortini, circulation department employe of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The detective was Patrick McNesley, designer of the trap which led to Filkowski's capture yesterday in New York.

There are two other deaths which are a part of Filkowski's record, but for only one is he accused of being directly responsible. That was the payroll slaying of Tony Veryk, in Cleveland, June 26, 1930.

County Prosecutor P. L. A. Leighley said he would ask the county grand jury today to indict Filkowski for this on a charge of murder. Officials at Columbus said extradition papers would be forthcoming.

SPECTACLE IS UNUSUAL

Garner Wants to Stay Out of Georgia Primary But Can't.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—The country was treated today to the contradictive spectacle of Speaker Garner's strongest supporters for the presidency pleading against efforts to secure for him the Georgia delegation to the Democratic national convention.

Representative Sam Rayburn of Texas, chosen leader of the pro-Garner forces, asked Judge G. H. Howard of Atlanta to withdraw his Garner-proxy candidacy in the Georgia primary. The request made the flat assertion that the speaker was not a candidate.

Nevertheless, word from Georgia was that Judge Howard would continue his efforts.

That Garner would not go into any primaries requiring consent, was expected in view of his stand to have nothing to do with the movement on his behalf.

Some saw in it disavowal of any connection between the Garner boom and the "stop-Roosevelt" drive, and forecast that efforts henceforth would be confined almost entirely to development of such enthusiasm as to make Garner the likeliest choice in case of a convention deadlock.

Daily Proverb—"He is unworthy to govern who governs not himself."

Word has been carried to Washington that "there will be no fight in Ohio" against the renomination of President Hoover, from which, we take it, the insurrection died of inanition.

"Stimson To Explain His Far East Policy."—Headline over a Washington story. It's unfortunate that there is any occasion for explanation of the policy of our department of state.

Immediately on his return from Albany, the ousted sheriff of New York went to a hospital. It's really remarkable—the regularity with which Tammany officials accused of irregularities seek the seclusion of hospitals.

If an American elects to join the Chinese army and gets killed, that's his affair, but it's not what might be called fortunate that Robert H. Short, who was shot down in an air fight with Japanese aviators, held a second lieutenant's commission in the United States army reserve air corps.

"Active Smith Drive Cheers Republicans," reads a headline over a political story in the New York Times. Under the circumstances, Republicans can hardly be blamed from smiling a bit over a Democratic ruction in the Empire state—it's so much like finding Republican votes.

Business activity in the New England states is said to be the highest, comparatively speaking, in the land. Easily understood. Those New Englanders are much the same in time of plenty and in time of stress. They expend wisely, never extravagantly, and follow the even tenor of their way regardless of outside conditions. When the country as a whole follows the same course, business stagnation and unemployment will disappear.

Ousted by a Democratic governor on charges made by the Democratic chairman of the legislative commission investigating official corruption in New York City, Sheriff Thomas M. Farley is estopped from the customary alibi of "it's all politics."

Colonel Robert Isham Randolph, head of the "Secret Six," the crime-fighting unit of the Chicago Association of Commerce, urges that kidnaping be made a federal crime. Why not, indeed? If it is a federal crime to take a woman or girl, with her consent, from one state to another, let us say, why should it not be a federal crime to take a man or woman from one state to another against his or her will?

The commandant of the coast guard told the house appropriations committee, Wednesday, that "large, highly-organized international combines" were operating 176 liquor-smuggling vessels along the United States coasts. In the face of a showing like that, it's hardly probable that the "liberty-loving" citizenship of the country is going to go thirsty.

What Can Be Done.

The President's drive against hoarding approaches its second week at top speed. Membership is accumulating like sticky snow on a snowball. Realization that hoarding is both a cause and effect of the present hard times that can be decreased by concerted public action is welcome, because it opens a way for action. It provides an opportunity to do something about the situation besides talking about what caused it.

It is a plain fact requiring no elaboration that upwards of $1,500,000,000 is being held out of circulation by hoarders. The anti-hoarding drive does not aim to force this sum, or any part of it, back into circulation until the people holding it are convinced that they would be serving their own interests by returning it to circulation.

The anti-hoarding drive is like a drive to get out the vote, in that respect. It is to remind the public to fulfil an important obligation to itself. The system will still work if the people will work it. It is the function of individuals and organizations actively supporting the drive to reestablish confidence, thereby reestablishing credit through a more nearly normal circulation of money.

Skeptics doubt that the drive can accomplish anything. Reluctant to feel confidence themselves, they can not believe that any one will be persuaded that there is growing justification for confidence in the existence of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, for instance. Skeptics, in other words, are going to talk, eat and breathe business stagnation just as long as there is any trace of it left. In the meantime, forces of a more constructive nature will be working in various ways to eliminate the traces. The drive against hoarding, in itself, will not cure the situation, but it will help when combined with other devices now pending or actually operating.

Freedom in Nineteen Years.

It may reasonably be asked whether the senate territories committee, preparing a bill granting independence to the Philippines in nineteen years, or some such definitely-evasive period, is proceeding with tongue in cheek. The jokers are too many and too pointed to be overlooked.

In nineteen years everything will be changed. Congressmen who now variously uphold and strike down the cause of Philippine independence will be dead or retired to private life. Filipinos who seek freedom will have realized that their quest is fruitless, or will have thrown themselves recklessly on the altar of their cause.

Economic conditions will be different, in precisely what way no one can predict. Tariff barriers, which now force Filipinos to look to the United States as a trade outlet will have been changed or abandoned. Japan will have seen how the manifest destiny that gave the Philippines to the United States works out when applied to the rising military power of Asia.

There will be few Americans left who remember the Spanish-American war. More and more of the newcomers will see the Philippine independence issue in perspective. New international factors will provide a new basis for consideration of the entire matter. Yet, a senate committee deliberates, in an atmosphere of respectable gravity, the advisability of trying to hush up troublesome Filipinos with a promise to give them their freedom in nineteen years—if everything goes all right.

Why muddle the matter with pious promises of things to happen two decades in the future? No one is being fooled, least of all the Filipinos.

Apparently as the result of charges, that Japanese soldiers were killing defenseless Chinese civilians, carried in the American-owned Shanghai Evening Post-Mercury, the Japanese consular authorities in Shanghai have canceled the passes of all foreign newspaper men. Foreign newspaper men should realize that they were tendered their passes that they might exploit Japanese prowess, not Nippon atrocities.

Barney Makes a Promise.

Americans are willing to sit on their hands and let Sir Malcolm Campbell, England's hurtling ambassador of good will, make and break automobile speed records. Barney Oldfield, who was doing fast driving long before Sir Malcolm was attracted by the idea, doesn't approve of national lassitude in such an important matter.

Next year, he promises, the world's automobile speed record will be in possession of Barney Oldfield. This country has drivers just as good as any in England, which logically means that Barney Oldfield can put an automobile over the Daytona beech course as fast as Sir Malcolm Campbell can, and faster. All praise to Barney, whose name and face fit in with racing cars as naturally as a big black cigar fits into the generously proportioned Oldfieldian mouth.

High speeds, after all, are relative. Perhaps Sir Malcolm is as safe scudding along in his Bluebird at 253 miles an hour as Sir Barney used to be in his primitive racing cars when they were doing a furious eighty per, with an assistant pumping oil. With modern equipment, the racing veteran may be able to make the present title holder look like a six-day bicycle rider.

The United States would like very much to hold the automobile speed record. It is difficult to think of any driver whose name would inspire more enthusiasm than Barney Oldfield. And what a hit the frayed and smouldering black cigar will make in the news reels.

William Morris Hughes, World wartime prime minister of Australia, is quoted as saying that if Great Britain declares an economic boycott against Japan "a state of war will exist between the two countries and every part of the empire will be involved," and that such a situation would be a catastrophe. It may be seen that Senator Borah is not alone in warning the country against the boycott proposed by some of our leading pacificists.

The senate civil service committee has favorably reported the Borah bill to reduce by twenty per cent. the $12,000 salaries of members of the farm board. It's absolutely heartless to cut the pay of hard-working servants of the people like that.

In a store window out in Bloomington, Indiana, a dollar which has been inactive since December 24, 1887, is being displayed with a statement that, had it been put out at six per cent. compound interest, it would have earned $29.19 up to Tuesday of this week. Just a little illustration of what the hoarding of money is costing those who hoard it.

A joint committee of the British Trades Union congress and the Labor party is urging that the League of Nations request every member nation of the league to withdraw its diplomatic representative from Tokio. Action such as this might possibly be taken by Nippon as a gentle hint at world feeling, but the Japanese have shown in recent months that they are mighty backward when it comes to the matter of taking hints.

Governor "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, of Oklahoma, predicts that, as a result of our foreign policy, this country and Japan will be at war within a year. Whether Bill may be right or wrong, it's a copper-riveted cinch that a war with Japan, or any other power, is just about the last thing the people of this country desire, and hardly anything short of stupidity can get us entangled in one.

Charging that the harlot has supplanted the gangster hero and is now the love of the movies, Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, asserts that Will Hays is retained "merely as a smoke screen to protect the industry against molestation by public authority," while the movie world carries out "its reckless program of capitalizing filth!" Somehow or other, possibly having in mind his physique, it's mighty hard for us to picture "Deacon" Will as much of a screen.

CLEVER, THESE CHINESE!

Editorial Opinion.

OHIO AND THE TRUCKS.

One by one all the states surrounding Ohio are adopting various forms of motor-truck regulation and taxation, in order to protect the motorists who use and largely pay for the highways, and to save the highways themselves. Pennsylvania, Indiana and Illinois have written into their motor vehicle acts regulations which are essentially the same and which have proved to be efficacious. The Kentucky legislature, now in session, is considering similar legislation. Tennessee, at a special session of its general assembly, imposed regulations and a mileage tax as a measure best calculated to assess most money from trucking lines that made heaviest use of the roads.

There is no reason why Ohio should lag in this increasingly important field of truck regulation. Ohio has more paved highways to support by taxation and to be broken down by abuse than any of these other states with the exception of Pennsylvania. Because of its location Ohio lies directly across the routes of main bus and truck lines from all quarters. The vast bulk of truck-hauled freight rumbling over the roads of the state does not originate in Ohio, is not billed for Ohio, benefits no Ohio business, pays not a cent for highway upkeep and in most cases the trucks carry surplus gasoline in order not to buy fuel in Ohio.

Present regulations in Ohio, which are hardly regulatory at all, permit trucks and trains of trailers to the length of eighty-five feet. It is these that go swaying along our highways, day and night, blocking traffic, endangering lives and property, ruining costly pavements, shaking houses along the city streets over which they pass—and often paying not one cent for their privileges. The new Illinois law limits the length of these highway "trains" to forty feet; limits the weight borne by each wheel; orders pneumatic tires on all vehicles moving more than ten miles an hour, and otherwise endeavors to protect its people and its property.

If, as seems possible, the Ohio legislature is called into extra session to provide funds for unemployment relief, it should not be too difficult to find some of the necessary money in reasonable taxation of the motor trains of box cars that use our highways. Money obtained from this source might relieve some of the railway workers who have been thrown out of work by inequitable truck competition with the railroads. It is time that we begin to look to the future of the railroads and to see that we can not both tax them and permit them to be impoverished by untaxed competition.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE IRISH ELECTIONS.

The Republican De Valeristas appear to have won sixty-five seats in the Dail, as against the governments forty-nine seats. This does not necessarily mean, however, that they will be able to twist the Lion's tail to the extent to which their irreconcilable leader so often has promised if he were ever in a position to do so. There are two other elements in the dail to be taken into account.

One of these elements consists of the Independents, who carried seventeen seats in last week's elections and will support the government. The other is Labor, which obtained seven seats and the support of which De Valera must secure if any ministry he may form is to have a majority over the combined opposition. There is some doubt about his ability to keep Labor behind him in a radical separatist program.

What De Valera aims at is complete independence of the British crown. The oath of allegiance to George V stands in the way of that. Consequently it must go. Already the Irish Free State enjoys a dominion status in some ways more liberal than that Canada now possesses—or at least more liberal than Canada has as yet asserted. That is not enough. The ambition of the Republican leaders will not be fulfilled until the Irish Free State is free to coerce Northern Ireland—Ulster—into union with it in one sovereign state of Ireland, which shall embrace all Erin.

A noble ambition, as any one will admit; but that it could be effected at this time, without more bloodshed than its fulfilment is worth, admits of doubt. Without the support of Labor's seven votes in the Dail it can not be attempted. The Republican leader may find himself "in office, but not in power," as Mr. Ramsay MacDonald did at Westminster, as long as he remained merely a partisan leader.—Detroit Free Press, February 23.

Watch Child's Hearing.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Catarrhal deafness is one of the tragedies of life. The ease of its prevention and the difficulty of its cure are characteristic of it. Neglected cases are likely never to be cured. They grow slowly and progressively worse. In bad cases its victims finally sink into the eternal silence of total deafness.

In order to understand how this calamity occurs, let us consider briefly the structure of the human ear. The external ear connects with a short tube, closed at the end by the ear drum. On the inner side of the ear drum is a chain of three bones that conducts sound through the middle ear into the inner ear. In the latter the "auditory nerve," or nerve of hearing is situated.

For normal hearing, a most important structure is a short tube extending from the middle ear to the space between the nose and throat. This brings air into the middle ear and permits fluids to drain away. This passageway, the Eustachian tube, is of the greatest importance. It makes certain that the supply of air in the middle ear is adequate. Otherwise, the drum of the ear loses its proper tension and hearing becomes impaired.

The requirements for perfect hearing are these: A healthy ear drum, which receives the waves of sound and conducts them to the chain of bones. Bones that vibrate properly. A sufficient amount of air in the middle ear, which means that the Eustachian tube must be unobstructed. An auditory nerve reacting normally to sounds transmitted to it.

The ear drum must be intact and free from the scars that form after a "gathering" in the ear, followed by rupture. The drum must have a proper air pressure on its inner side. Equally important is the condition of the chain of bones. Sometimes inflammation may impede their movements by producing stiffness of their joints.

The first step in the progress of catarrhal deafness is the extension of a nasal infection through the Eustachian tube into the middle ear. The lining membrane of the tube becomes inflamed and swollen. In consequence the middle ear fills up with mucus or pus. Where the infection is severe and the dammed up secretions are too great to be accommodated, the ear drum ruptures. Under suitable treatment, such cases may often be cured without permanent disturbance of hearing.

It is the chronic catarrh, often of apparently little importance, that is apt to end in disaster. A low grade of inflammation invades the middle ear, producing adhesions of the joints of the tiny bones. Likewise, the almost complete closure of the Eustachian tube causes the ear drum to sink inward and leaves it incapable of responding to sound waves.

No one who is suffering from chronic nasal catarrh can afford to neglect skilled medical treatment. Extension of the catarrh to the ear causes impairment of hearing, which at first may be slight and at this stage may be cured. But later, when marked changes have occurred, treatment must be followed for months or years, often with discouraging results.

Changes of temperature, digestive disorders and health below par, are common causes of nasal trouble; while influenza, fevers, infected tonsils and sinus trouble are among the causes likely to result in the development of ear disease.

A.—No, not unless there is some disturbance which warrants this treatment. Boric acid solution is perfectly harmless and a most suitable eyewash.—Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, Feb. 25—President Hoover's decision to do away with handshaking altogether marks the final step in a campaign he has waged from the time he entered the White House.

One of the first things to "go by the board" when he became President was the daily noon public reception out of which Coolidge got such a kick. Hundreds gathered in the west wing of the White House for the privilege of shaking "Cal's" hand.

Not so with Mr. Hoover.

After fire had wrecked the executive offices of the White House on Christmas Eve of 1929, President Hoover saw to it that the rebuilding should be done in such a way that those delegations he had to see should be dispatched in and out with little lost motion.

The partitions in the outer offices were torn down to provide an assembling place for the large delegations. Space for the smaller groups was provided in little alcoves.

The President extended his ideas on engineering further. In his own office he so arranged things that large delegations ushered into his presence kept moving. Group formations such as prevailed before were no more. Visitors got what appeared to be a very personal greeting—plenty of smiles, but if it could be avoided, no handclasps.

Once past the President the visitors put on speed. Mr. Hoover made sure of this by having the back steps broadened so that five or more could walk abreast. Before, exit was hampered by steps so narrow visitors had to go out in single file.

If the President was to be photographed with the group, then they followed a concrete walk to the rear lawn.

Mr. Hoover, with no loss of time, would appear front row and center. Perhaps he would shake hands affably with those nearest him to symbolize a general and friendly spirit.

The cameras snap. More presidential smiles and Mr. Hoover would return to his office.

The visitors had no choice as to what to do next. Their exit was a straight line to the street.

But all of that is over now—at least for a while. Mrs. Hoover will "pinch hit" for the President in the future.

Phil Sheridan Meets Buffalo Bill.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

It was in the late sixties when General Sheridan, relieved of reconstruction work in the South, was in charge of Indian control work in the west, with headquarters at Fort Hays, that he first met William F. Cody, already known as Buffalo Bill because of his efficiency in providing a railroad contractor with fresh buffalo meat for his construction gang. He had just left that employment, and, attached to the army quartermaster corps, he, one day, brought a dispatch from Ft. Dodge, Ia., telling of Indian outrages.

It was necessary for Sheridan to get orders at once to Ft. Dodge and as the ride was a rough and dangerous one, none of the scouts at Ft. Hays could be induced to take the risk. Cody readily agreed to take the duty, and though tired by the long ride he had just made, started back, with only six hours rest. He stopped at Larned on the way and changed horses, but went forward almost immediately to Ft. Dodge. Delivering his message he received another for General Sheridan and started back with it at once.

Writing of this service in his memoirs, General Sheridan said: "In all, Cody had ridden 350 miles in less than sixty hours, and such an exhibition of endurance and courage was more than enough to convince me that his services would be exceedingly valuable in the campaign so I retained him at Ft. Hays until the battalion of the Fifth Cavalry arrived and then made him chief scout of the regiment."

"Do you regard printers' ink as an effectual means of guiding the tastes and opinions of the people?"

"It works in my own case," answered Senator Sorghum. "It has persuaded me several times to change my brands of cigarets and shaving cream."

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE

New York, Feb. 25—Three months is the average life of the de luxe speakeasy. Either a raid or the Manhattan urge for something different makes it difficult to hold patronage. Consequently those spots with the breath-taking grandeur must work fast and furiously.

Yet many in such a quick pace have returned enormous profits to underworld backers. The speakeasy sponsors take greater risks than angels of the expensive musical shows. They must pay almost extortionate rent for a year in advance, aside from protection graft.

In the past six months a score have opened at a cost bordering on a quarter of a million. Just now they face the added hazzard, in case of raids, of having the government seize and cart off entire furnishings. To clean up the intake must be $5,000 a day for at least ninety days.

The "Big Time" for the glorified hushhut is along a quiet residential street on the fashionable East Side. The only outside show is a carriage canopy bearing the number. Many ask the patrons to quit their cars at the nearest corner and walk to stifle the jangle of cars.

Bulk of the capital comes from gangsters and bootleg rings. One of the most successful operators is listed a public enemy. A dummy management seems in control and in case of trouble with authorities this management must take the rap.

Selling concessions is one of the big sources of revenue, the most lucrative being hat checking. Patrons are usually generous with such tips. The strolling orchestras in many instances work solely for gratuities and in some places bartenders also.

Backgammon and bridge teachers pay high rent for ante-rooms and so on down the line to starters who work free. The most magnificent bodega was recently ordered to remove its enormous bar and is now trying to soft to prosperity as a restaurant only.

Audiences were not always so tolerant of stage mumbling as today. At the Apollo in Atlantic City fifteen years ago, Henry Miller was appearing with Ruth Chatterton. Important lines became a blurry jumble. At the end of the first act an irate customer stopped the show shouting: "I paid three dollars to see this and can't hear a word. I'm going to the box office for my money. Three hundred followed.

Then there was the flop floundering through a New York premiere. Finally in the middle of the second act some one arose in the balcony and in an ingratiating voice cried pleasantly: "Well, good evening everybody."

Patti once visited a London insane asylum. In a corridor an aristocratic gentleman inquired if she were not the great Patti. For years he had worshipped at her shrine and recalled a particular night when she was in magnificent voice at Covent Garden. He had a profound knowledge of music and the singer could not believe he was an inmate. But he told her he had been railroaded by rich relations and nothing could be done. Finally she asked him to sit with her on a nearby bench. "I'd like to," he said, "but I can't. I'm solid glass from the hips down."

The Germans Nervous.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

Berlin, Feb. 25—While the nerves of the people are strung to a degree where every blowout of an automobile causes pedestrians to jump, the Berlin police have acquired the habit of chasing their riot squads through peaceful streets, sirens screeching and frightening people out of their wits.

The menace of civil war is taken so seriously that many foreign diplomats and business men have sent their wives and children out of the country. The daughter of a well-known American motion picture producer telephoned me and said:

"I am going to a convent school here. My mother is very much worried about a revolution. She asked me to ask your advice as to whether it was safe for me to stay here."

I advised her to stay in Berlin.

The tense situation is marked by an increasingly hostile attitude towards France on the part of the Nationalist elements that lost the World war. The "Voelkischer Beobachter," the official newspaper of Adolph Hitler and the National Socialists reproduced and wholly misconstrued a French newspaper cartoon pertaining to Germany's claim that she is too poor to pay reparations.

The cartoon showed French guards presenting arms in front of the driveway entrance to the Elysee for a reception of the diplomatic corps. A two-wheeled dump cart drawn by a barefoot bedraggled coolie is just entering the gateway. In the cart is perched a man in frayed tails and a demolished top hat. "Who is he?" asks a hooked-nosed Frenchman of a guard. "Oh, it is the German ambassador."

"Thus the German ambassador is caricatured as a ragman," the Nazi newspaper commented, "a ragman whose manure cart is drawn by another bandit. Dr. Bruening did not protest."

The interpretation of the cartoon is taken as distinguishing Chancellor Bruening's stands on reparations from Hitler's.

The recent "emergency decree" restricting the amount of money which may be taken out of Germany does not apply to foreigners, who may take out as much as they brought when they entered the country. All that is required is that the traveler, when crossing the border, secure from the customs authorities a certification of the amount of money brought in.

In order to make compliance with this regulation easier, the Middle European Sleeping and Dining Car company—"Mitropa"—now has printed forms handed to each sleeping car passenger before the train reaches the border. These are to be filled out and given to the conductor of the sleeping car who then attends to all necessary formalities, so that the passengers are not disturbed.

COUNTY GETS AG STATION

Government To Experiment on Crop Production on Muck Lands.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Feb. 25—A government agricultural experiment station in the Scioto marsh district will be started this year, according to announcements made by representatives from the Wooster experiment station. A 10-acre plot of ground along the Cottonwood creek, south of McGuffey, has been purchased for the station.

The advantages and facilities of the proposed station will be available to upland farmers as well as farmers in the marsh district.

Representatives from the Wooster station were Dr. C. G. Williams, Prof. Gourly, Dr. H. C. Young and J. S. Houser.

The purpose of the station, according to Dr. Williams, will be to lower production costs and determine what crops are best adapted to the muck lands, rather than to increase production.

The movement for a government station was launched three years ago by farmers of the muck areas who were bent upon increasing the diversity of muck farming and of increasing returns from their agricultural activities.

A committee of four was named to promote the movement. They were Neil Ahlefeld, chairman; Judge W. W. Bowers, secretary, J. B. Stambaugh and Dean C. Wolgamot.

UNION OPPOSES SALE OF GARBAGE OUTFIT

Takes Definite Stand at Meeting Following Committee Report.

Members of the Marion Central Labor union at their meeting last night took a definite stand against the sale of the city garbage collection equipment following a report by a committee consisting of Jesse Warrick, Ralph K. Ruppart and C. W. Davidson, appointed to investigate the proposed sale.

The union took the stand that the change would not assure the continued employment of Marion labor and for that reason it would oppose any plan for its sale. Further investigation into some plan of changing the losses now sustained by the department each year, into profits, was also suggested at the meeting.

The need of a closer understanding between working groups was stressed by John A. Marvin of Binghamton, N. Y., who spoke at the meeting. Marvin, who is general secretary of the Erie Railway System federation and general chairman of the Erie boiler makers union told of the recent wage adjustment conference held in Chicago by railroad officials and employes. He urged education along the lines of trade union ideals, maintaining that without such education, conferences such as was held in Chicago, would not be possible.

PROPOSAL TO DISARM WORLD TURNED DOWN

Geneva Conference Rejects Russian Plan of Immediate Total Disarmament.

By The Associated Press

GENEVA, Feb. 25 — The world disarmament conference today voted down Russia's proposal for immediate total and universal disarmament.

The proposal was presented by Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs. Only Turkey and Russia supported the proposal.

"The special interest of the munition makers," Litvinoff said, are stronger than the pacific groups. Civilization would not suffer much if all the fighting in the far east were done with bare fists."

His proposal was predicated upon the statement that "the very existence of armaments and the tendency they show constantly to increase will inevitably lead to armed international conflicts which tear workers from their peaceful occupations and bring innumerable calamities in their train."

STIMSON NOTE SEEN AS DIPLOMATIC STEP

Letter to Borah Interpreted as Outline of U. S. Policy in China.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—Secretary of State Stimson's letter to Senator Borah, outlining American policy in China, was seen today as a definite effort to inform world opinion and stop the barrage of notes between Toyko and Washington.

The letter to Senator Borah calls for no reply from the Japanese foreign office and does not invite international controversy. But it lets all powers know that the United States believes existing treaties sufficient to protect the interests of China, and of all other nations which signed the nine-power treaty, framed in 1922.

By this indirect method Japan's suggestions of treaty revisions or interpretations to permit foreign intervention, are definitely rejected by the United States without giving Japan a direct rebuff.

Congressional sentiment aligned strongly behind the new Stimson statement. The forceful reminder that the treaties fixing naval ratios are interdependent with the nine power pact for the preservation of China's territorial integrity, and that this pact is threatened by the present conflict, was seized upon by big navy advocates as fuel for their fire.

EAGER TO TELL ABOUT HER STOMACH

"I want to tell others about my experience with Pape's Diapepsin," says Mrs. B. Eastman, 1200 California St., Denver, Colo. "I tried a lot of things for my indigestion, but none of them did any good. Then a friend persuaded me to take a few tablets of this wonderful preparation.

"Now I even eat cabbage without any distress afterwards. It used to cause real suffering. I am not nearly so nervous as I used to be; feel much stronger and better in every way."

A medicine must have real merit to bring forth enthusiastic statements like this. And when not one, but hundreds, even thousands, are telling the same story of success, there seems no reason to doubt the day-in and day-out reliability of Pape's Diapepsin to help stomach sufferers.

These harmless, candy-like tablets relieve the heartburn, nausea, gas, belching, headaches, dizziness and other symptoms of indigestion.

Canby Temple Members are Hostesses at Colonial Tea

ONE of the many George Washington bicentennial programs which Marion is giving in observance of the first president's birthday anniversary, was the colonial tea at which members of Canby Temple No. 152, Pythian Sisters, were hostesses last evening in the Knights of Pythias lodge rooms.

More than 200 knights and sisters of both Marion orders and lodges and temples in outlying communities were present. Tea was served by Mrs. Tressie Schweinfurth, Mrs. U. F. Zachman, Mrs. Daisy Felty and Mrs. V. H. Aller, in colonial costume. Tea balls with miniature red hatchets attached, were given as favors.

The large hall was decorated in red, white and blue streamers and flags.

Attorney Speaks

Ralph Carhart, Marion attorney, delivered the address of the evening, speaking on George Washington. His talk followed a delightful colonial program.

The program opened with the entire assembly singing "America," and songs of the revolutionary war days. The pledge of allegiance was given by four small children dressed as George and Martha Washington, first to the first flag with 13 stars and second to the flag of today.

Features of the program were a minuet by 12 girls of the Forest Lawn school, and a playette, "The Ton Family," given by children. The minuet was directed by Mrs. H. R. Diegle. In colonial costume, they danced the stately minuet of Washington's day. They were Pauline Parish, Jean Willoughby, June Thomas, Dorothy Jones, Maxine Buller, Louise Bunker, Katherine Kegg, Eileen Hinamon, Lena Schaffer, Martha Corwin, Marie Hollansbed and Martha Merchant.

Those taking part in the playlet, also in costume, were George Diegle, Pauline Parish, Jean Willoughby, Melford Corbin, Maxine Buller, Joe Todd, Lena Schaffer and Jay Johnson. Miss Arena Hinds of Forest Lawn school directed the playette.

Recitations were given by Betty Felty and Maxine Willoughby. Following a reading by Mrs. Mabel Peterson, Glen Willoughby sang a group of southern melodies, playing his own ukelele accompaniment. Lena Schaffer entertained with a tap dance and Betty Felty, in colonial costume, played a piano solo.

Hold Card Party

Yesterday afternoon the Canby Pythian Sisters gave their biweekly card party in the lodge rooms. Ten tables were arranged for bridge and euchre. Mrs. Ethel Yoakum and Mrs. Leora Hamilton won first and second bridge awards. First and second euchre awards were presented Mrs. Mabel Peterson and Mrs. Walter Kegg.

During a short business meeting the officers filled the chairs in colonial costumes. The hall was decorated in keeping with the Washington birthday anniversary. Mrs. V. H. Aller, Mrs. Blanche Maas and Mrs. Daisy Felty, as hostesses, served refreshments.

Mrs. Meda Decker of Richwood, district deputy, will inspect the temple on April 13, it was announced yesterday. The anniversary date observance will be made on March 23.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare, costs little, and saves money, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Beautician Lists Four Pointers Essential to Being Well Groomed

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

I've been checking up to see which points of beauty culture, among those which should be given attention each day, the majority of women are inclined to overlook. Not that they consistently neglect these points each day...but they are inclined to forget them today and try to make up for them tomorrow!

The two outstanding points neglected are the eyebrows and the elbows! Next comes the daily attention to the cuticle and lastly and most neglected are the teeth.

Each of these four parts of the body should be cared for daily, just as the matter of washing the hands, cleaning under the nails, brushing the teeth and applying make-up are a daily routine for every woman who is well groomed.

The thing I discovered about the eyebrows is that, even those women who have their brows arched at beauty shops every week or ten days are exceedingly careless about pluck out the new growth of hair as soon as it appears and which destroys the arch, making the brows look exceedingly ill-kept.

Do you realize that you can have your brows arched once and then, if you give them daily attention, you need never have them arched in the beauty shop again, unless you wish to change the outline?

Elbows and Hands

Within a day or two after plucking or arching the brows, new hairs begin to break through the surface of the skin. Plucky these out as soon as they are long enough for the tweezers to catch and you'll always have a clean, clear, smooth browline. But let them go for two or three days and you'll be surprised at the thickness of the new growth and how it confuses the true outline of the arch which you had only a few days ago.

The elbows, it would seem, are petted and pampered today and then left to shift for themselves tomorrow and possibly the day after! Scrub them each and every day with warm water and soap and a flesh brush. Rinse them carefully in clear, warm water. Rub them dry with a Turkish towel to stimulate circulation and to rub off dry and dead skin which clogs the pores. At night, always smooth a nourishing cream or lotion such as you use on your hands over the elbows. To have attractive elbows, this routine must be observed each and every day.

Every day a little cuticle works off around the base of the nails. Left to adhere to the nails or to make an uneven cuticle line around the nails, it spoils the lovely manicure you had yesterday.

It is so easy to dispose of this dead cuticle by merely rubbing it off with the towel when you dry your hands . . . . if you would only do it! Also, you should massage a bit of olive oil or cuticle oil or salve around the base of the nails every night to keep the cuticle from becoming dry.

Of course you do brush your teeth each day—but do you look for tiny stains, caused by chemical reaction from foods or from smoke from cigarets? Barely noticeable today, unless one looks carefully, they become quite apparent tomorrow. Remove the slightest discoloration on the teeth by pouring a little peroxide over your toothbrush and then brushing the teeth. It will keep them beautifully clean and white.

When FAT Goes Back Comes Vim

The World Way

The right way for treating obesity is now employed by doctors the world over. It is based on a new discovery—a gland cause.

Modern science finds that a great cause of excess fat lies in a scanty gland secretion. Then food which should be turned to energy simply piles up fat. Thus people grow both fat and lazy through the same gland cause.

Doctors everywhere now feed that lacking factor. They know that abnormal exercise and diet can never bring fat down, and vim back, while that lack exists.

Marmola prescription tablets do what modern doctors do. They feed a like gland, taken from food animals. A famous medical laboratory prepares it to fit the average case.

Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told others the results, and the use has spread. Excess fat has been disappearing fast in those years, as everybody knows. It will go faster when more people recognize this right way to reduce.

Go try Marmola. A book in the box gives the formula, and tells why it does what it does. Cease the methods which have failed you. Combat the cause. Do what multitudes are doing with results you see. Go start today.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

"I Haven't Any Pride"

In a satisfactory way Hope began to plan her own trousseau. Occasionally voices here and there. But the shopping lost all tang as Mama and Goody began to take it over in an experienced manner, leaving all out of bounds with a few ideas.

Only Hope was happier as days passed. With a safe feeling. A certain satisfaction in Rusty's tenderness. A strange comfort in the thought that she was being watched and taken care of.

The engagement was officially announced in September, just a few weeks before Judy's wedding was to be performed. And Hope went about with a flashlight on her finger at last, a new diamond brooch at her bosom, and a strange buzzing in her head.

And all would have been well. Very well indeed. Were it not for another newspaper announcement right alongside of her own in the Times. Another announcement that caused Hope to go weak with panic, with a painful flash of hot excitement through her blood.

Eileen Argyle, her picture beside the announcement—a nice picture of a nice, paddy-cake face—admitted that her engagement to Richard J. Hickson Dale was postponed indefinitely.

Now what difference would that make to Hope? None at all! None whatsoever! What possible concern could it be of hers?

And yet. . .

There was a sharpness in Rusty's voice when he called up an hour later and asked Hope to luncheon. There was an unhappy questioning in Rusty's eyes as she sat opposite him and avoided his direct glance, smiling broadly and chatting continuously. . . . Rusty had seen it in the paper, and Rusty knew she had seen it, and Rusty wondered.

Poor Rusty! She mustn't let him be hurt.

Desperately Hope forced herself to be in love. Earnestly she set out to prove to everyone how truly happy she was with Rusty. Until the worried light died down from the eyes all around her that had seen the two announcements side by side in the Times. . . . And Mama, and Papa, and Goody, and Rusty were satisfied at last — and silently thankful.

Nervously she refused to set a date for her own wedding with Rusty, begging him to wait until Judy's excitement was over and she had time to think. With boundless energy Hope threw herself into the maelstrom of Judy's wedding to the boy who had cast away his E-flat saxophone and engaged a publicity expert.

And then, the night before Judy's wedding, Hope found one last item in the newspapers—merely a line in Winchell's delirious gossip column that Hickey Dale and son were "to mal-de-mer on the Paris manyana."

It struck home, that simple statement, like a bolt of lightning into Hope's unconquerable soul! It was as if she had been waiting for something just like that! Dickey! Very well indeed. Were it not for another newspaper announcement right alongside of her own in the Times. Another announcement that caused Hope to go weak with panic, with a painful flash of hot excitement through her blood.

And Mama, and Papa, and Goody, and Rusty were satisfied at last — and silently thankful.

Nervously she refused to set a date for her own wedding with Rusty, begging him to wait until Judy's excitement was over and she had time to think. With boundless energy Hope threw herself into the maelstrom of Judy's wedding to the boy who had cast away his E-flat saxophone and engaged a publicity expert.

And then, the night before Judy's wedding, Hope found one last item in the newspapers—merely a line in Winchell's delirious gossip column that Hickey Dale and son were "to mal-de-mer on the Paris manyana."

It struck home, that simple statement, like a bolt of lightning into Hope's unconquerable soul! It was as if she had been waiting for something just like that! Dickey! Very well indeed. Were it not for another newspaper announcement right alongside of her own in the Times. Another announcement that caused Hope to go weak with panic, with a painful flash of hot excitement through her blood.

Eileen Argyle, her picture beside the announcement—a nice picture of a nice, paddy-cake face—admitted that her engagement to Richard J. Hickson Dale was postponed indefinitely.

Now what difference would that make to Hope? None at all! None whatsoever! What possible concern could it be of hers?

And yet. . .

There was a sharpness in Rusty's voice when he called up an hour later and asked Hope to luncheon. There was an unhappy questioning in Rusty's eyes as she sat opposite him and avoided his direct glance, smiling broadly and chatting continuously. . . . Rusty had seen it in the paper, and Rusty knew she had seen it, and Rusty wondered.

Poor Rusty! She mustn't let him be hurt.

Desperately Hope forced herself to be in love. Earnestly she set out to prove to everyone how truly happy she was with Rusty. Until the worried light died down from the eyes all around her that had seen the two announcements side by side in the Times. . . . And Mama, and Papa, and Goody, and Rusty were satisfied at last — and silently thankful.

There was surprise, and then a tightening of his lips and a calculated and determined indifference in Dickey's glance. . . .

In a second he had turned away, and at the same moment Hope saw Hickey's back.

"He doesn't want to recognize me," she mumbled to herself excitedly. "But I won't mind. I won't let it matter. He's made up his mind not to recognize me. But he'll recognize me all right before the voyage is over!"

She turned swiftly and wended her way to the corridor of Judy's stateroom.

"I haven't any pride," she kept telling herself. "But I don't care. I have got pride. Too much pride not to make one big whale of a whack for love."

She found Judy's room and listened to herself saying good-by all over again.

With the last bellowing blast of the ship's siren, Hope left Judy, gave her one last hug of good-by blessing. But she didn't get off the boat. Small matter how her heart was beating. She just wouldn't get off the boat.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Finds Comfort in Lillian's Ready Sympathy and Offer of Help.

BUT it was not Dicky whose tap at the nursery door I had heard. When I opened it, outwardly nonchalant but inwardly shaking, Lillian stood there. She put a finger to her lips, and when she had given me into the room I shut and locked the door. She backed me into the nursery as I did so and then, safe from any possible eavesdropping, she spoke in low worried tones that yet held a trace of amusement.

"For the love of Isaac and his ancestors will you tell me what streak of insomnia has struck this family and its guests?" she demanded.

Lillian Hears the Tale

"Those men haven't been in bed two hours after one of the most strenuous nights in their lives, yet Hugh drifts across the greensward a good half hour ago, and shortly after that the Dicky-bird, in night plumage more or less discreetly veiled by a futuristic bathrobe, flutters down to the sick room and announces that he will pinch-hit for Harry instead of me.

"He was so short and grumpy about it that I didn't protest, and went back to the veranda, where I had met you and Hugh, but there was no sign of either of you. Katie volunteered the information that Mrs. Grantland he go for walk, and Mrs. Graham she scoot upstairs wit' dat blessed baby.' As I had asked her no questions, I did not make any comment upon her apparently crazy speech. I was sure the baby hadn't been downstairs, and came up here to ask you if Katie wouldn't be safer in a straitjacket."

Her tone was carefully light and amused upon the surface, but I knew that underneath her solicitude was calling to me. "What has happened? Do you need me? I am here."

"Sit down," I said quietly, "and I'll tell you all about it."

"Not if you weren't going to anyway," she said, putting up a protesting hand. "I don't deny I'm furious as the famous defunct cat, but I'll survive."

"I want to tell you," I said, "for I'm afraid I have a problem on my hands that will need your help later. In the first place, Katie was quite right. I did have the baby downstairs, and I did 'scoot up' with her."

She sank back in her chair, and a grin quirked the corners of her mouth.

"Go on," she said. "This promises to be good. Let's see if I can reconstruct it. Hugh couldn't sleep, being so near you after so long."

"Lillian—" I expostulated. "He never—then I stopped in confusion, remembering that Hugh had intimated exactly that.

The Rest of the Story

"No? Well. Suppose we say 'hardly ever,'" she retorted, grinning at me. "So he planned to go for a walk and you offered him breakfast. I'll warrant, alias ameo Ronald he couldn't eat a thing.' No, you needn't answer that," as my cheeks flamed. "Then I suppose he asked to see the new daughter."

"He didn't know she was in existence until he heard her cry upstairs," I said, and Lillian's mouth opened wide. When she shut it again she brought an emphatic fist down on the arm of her chair.

"That would bowl him over," she said. "A little daughter, your image and all that. He's the softest-hearted most romantic dub that ever hid behind a military man's mask. And, of course, you came up and brought her down to see him. But—" She rose and peered around the room with burlesqued stealth—"Where have you hidden poor Mother Graham's body? You must have murdered her, Madge. She never would have let the baby go out of this nursery suite otherwise."

"I know it," I said contritely. She was so tired when I came up that she turned the baby over to me and went into her room for a nap. But you know, don't you, Lillian, that I wouldn't have taken Faith downstairs except that you said there was no more danger from the Chinese—"

A Realization

"Of course I know it, stupid!" she said affectionately. "And of course, also, you did the right thing in bringing down the baby to show Hugh. Poor devil! He certainly is entitled to a little kindly attention. If ever a man served a woman faithfully, selflessly and hopelessly, he is that man. But what in the seven hinges brought Dicky downstairs? If ever anybody was scheduled to be the Seven Sleepers, he was the guy."

"I suppose the baby's crying awakened him in the first place," I said, "and then—I don't know, but anyway, he came downstairs just as Hugh was thanking me for bringing Faith down. I was [illegible] in the hall."

"My [illegible] husband's [illegible] last [illegible] that [illegible] and [illegible] in the [illegible]

Lillian, Hugh spoke as if he meant to stay in this country for awhile, and he asked me if it would be possible for him to see baby Faith occasionally. You see, don't you?"

My voice trailed off, and she waited for a long second before she spoke.

"Yes," she said at last. "I see more than I wish I did."

Harding To Close N. C. O. League Sked at Shelby Friday

THIRD PLACE POST AWAITS WINNER OF FINAL LOOP BATTLE

Mansfield Ends Play at Bucyrus Tonight; Ashland-Galion Meet Friday.

Whatever hopes it ever had of sharing the league championship shattered, Harding High school's basketeers will complete the North Central Ohio league schedule Friday night by traveling to Shelby for a second court duel with Coach "Chick" Young's Whippets. Third place in the final standings of the circuit will be the prize at stake as the Presidents and Whippets go through 32 minutes of competition. The two teams are now tied for third place, each with a record of five victories and three defeats.

To Shelby goes the credit for having shattered Harding's early season winning streak and the Presidents are not likely to be forgetting that as they battle the Whippets Friday. The Men of Bohyer had three straight league victories to their credit when they met the Shelby team in the first round encounter. The Whippets turned back Harding, 29-25 in a fiercely-fought contest to start the Marion five on a downward skid from first place.

Harding was at a distinct disadvantage when the Shelby team was met in the first round. Carol Caris had been declared ineligible the day before and the team was in none too good physical condition. Caris is still missing but there are none of the players on the bench with injuries. With the entire squad in good condition, Harding will be able to meet the Whippets on even terms.

The battle for third place is likely to develop into another of those gruelling struggles which have become almost a habit in the league this season. Few and far between have been the easy games and the Harding-Shelby fray looms as no exception to the rule.

Coach D. N. Bohyer excused his first five men from practice last night and put the remainder of the squad through a good workout. The five regulars will be back in uniform tonight for the final practice session of the season.

The Harding reserves will meet the Shelby reserves in the preliminary Friday night and will attempt to chalk up the tenth straight victory. The Harding seconds have already cinched the reserve championship and need only a victory over the Whippet Jay Vess to make it a perfect season. The first game will start at 7:15.

While Harding is visiting Shelby Friday night in the hope of cinching third place in the standings, Ashland will be invading Galion for a game which will likely mean a tie for the title by Ashland. The Hilltoppers will be heavy favorites to take the Orangemen into camp, especially since Delnore Goldsmith has been lost to the Galion team through sickness.

Mansfield and Bucyrus will close the season a day ahead of schedule. They will meet tonight on the Bucyrus court, the game having been moved up a day on request of Bucyrus officials. Mansfield can cinch a tie for the league crown by a victory over the Redmen.

Ex-Ohio Stars Will Dedicate Buckeye Gym

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25—Former athletes who earned their letters at Ohio State university, will gather on the campus Friday to participate in a two-day program marking dedication of the new men's gymnasium and natatorium.

A special varsity "O" dinner has been arranged for Saturday evening. Such letter men as President George Rightmire, Athletic Director L. W. St. John and H. S. Atkinson, member of the athletic board and of the board of trustees, are on the speakers' program.

T. H. Tangeman, state director of commerce, who competed in football and track here some 30 years ago, Fred Secrest, Cleveland attorney, and Robert Heekin of Cincinnati, will take part.

A special section is to be preserved at the Chicago-Ohio basketball game that evening for the stars of former years. As a novelty these men will present a mock basketball game between halves of the varsity struggle. Each time a basket is made an additional guard will enter the fray to prevent further scoring. Wesley Fesler and Dick Larkins will captain the two teams.

JUNIOR HIGH TEAM TO PLAY FACULTY

The Junior high school faculty basketball team will attempt Friday night to avenge a previous defeat at the hands of a ninth grade cage team. The faculty will meet the Edison Junior High team.

Edison Junior High seventh grade team will meet the Vernon seventh graders in a preliminary game to start at 7:30 p. m.

The faculty-varsity clash is an annual affair of junior high basketball here.

No Room for Alex.

By The Associated Press

CATALINA ISLAND, Cal., Feb. 25—Manager Rogers Hornsby admitted there is no room for the veteran Grover Cleveland Alexander on the Cubs staff this year, but he is taking full advantage of Alex's baseball knowledge in drilling his rookies. Ever since the rookie school opened, old Alex has been imparting knowledge to Cub pitching hopefuls.

Y-INDUS CAPTURES 37-25 CAGE VICTORY IN DULL CONFLICT

Mt. Vernon Quintet Falls Before Accurate Shooting of Marion Five.

With both teams displaying only average basketball form, the Shovel Y-Indus club last night chalked up a 37-25 victory over the Mt. Vernon Y. M. C. A. quintet on the Steam Shovel floor. The victory was the seventeenth in 24 games played by the Marion amateur five.

The usual smooth working offense of the Y-Indus five was missing last night as the Marion team scored the 12 point victory. Accurate shooting, more than organized play, was responsible for the easy triumph.

Marion got off to a flying start in the first period and rang up an advantage that Mt. Vernon never overcame although a last period rally brought the scores to within a few points of being deadlocked. The Y-Indus led by a 15-4 count at the end of the first period and stretched the margin to 21-12 by halftime.

Mt. Vernon speeded up in the third period and succeeded in bringing the score to 28-19 in favor of Marion and continued the rally into the fourth period, bringing the score almost to a deadlock before the Y-Indus suddenly came to life and went on another scoring spree.

Vic Gillis was high scorer of the game with 17 points, collected through eight field goals and a charity toss. Carol Caris was second high scorer with six points.

EIGHT CONTENDERS LEFT IN TOURNEY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 25—Eight contenders for the national handball singles championship continued tournament play here today. Twenty-three others fell by the wayside yesterday and last night.

Two easy victories kept Sam Atcheson of Memphis, Tenn., the present title-holder, among the survivors. Merritt Bates, of Dallas, Tex., the 1930 champion, and Al Hobelman, of Baltimore, stayed with him. The other five survivors, were all of Cleveland.

When the gun cracks Friday night to end the basketball hostilities between Harding and Shelby High schools, seven members of the Harding court squad will hang up their basketball togs insofar as North Central Ohio league basketball is concerned. All members of the squad will be eligible to compete in the district tournament at Delaware a week later but practically speaking the high school careers of the seven will end with the Shelby clash.

Those who will play their last game for Harding Friday are Jack Ling, Fred Vestal, Don Lindsey, John Pickerel, Dick Morgan, Junior Clay and Jay Howser.

Four of the graduating members are regulars on this season's Harding team. Jack Ling is the towering center, Fred Vestal plays a forward, Don Lindsey and John Pickerel make up the guard combination. Jay Howser has played all of this season with the reserve team which walked with the N. C. O. league reserve flag.

The departure of all of these men will leave several gaps to be filled if Harding is to support a good basketball club next season. However, there is a plentiful supply of reserve material in which there appears to be considerable varsity timber. The prospect of a winning team isn't as bad as it might seem on first glance.

Frank Menke, sports editor of the International News service, has compiled some interesting facts relative to the game of basketball. Below are listed some of the records worthy of note which have been turned in since the game was originated. Strange as it seems, there is no mention made of any game which has been won as a result of a player making a basket for an opposing team.

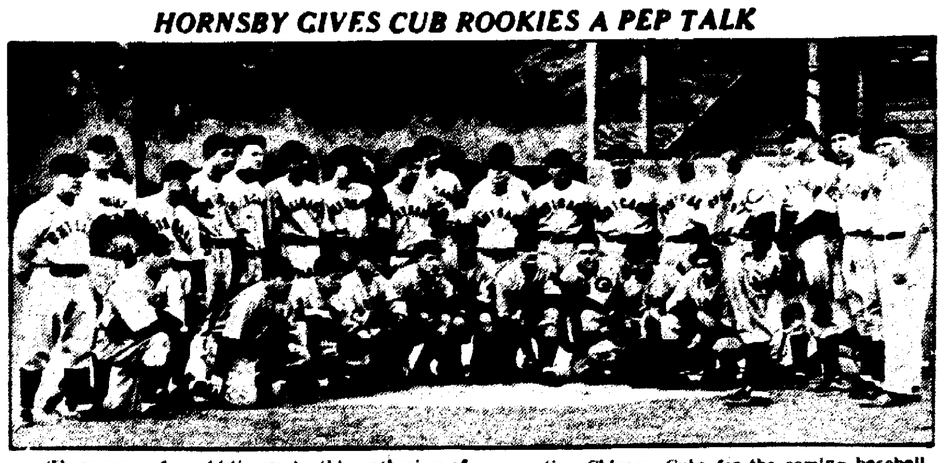
HORNSBY GIVES CUB ROOKIES A PEP TALK



There are a few old-timers in this gathering of prospective Chicago Cubs for the coming baseball season, but most of them are rookies listening intently as Manager Rogers Hornsby (fourth from right) tells the boys what he expects of them this year. Among the things he suggested was that the Bruins bring the National league pennant back to Chicago from St. Louis.

YOUTHFUL PLAYER LEADS TOURNAMENT

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 — Youth was having its fling in the special all-star three cushion billiard tournament today.

Jay Bozeman of Vallejo, Calif., led the veteran field with four victories and one defeat, apparently unmindful that he was head of other such stars as Willie Hoppe, Augie Kieckhefer, Welker Cochran and Arthur Thurnblad.

Kieckhefer, winner of the 1932 world's title, was in second place with three victories and two defeats, though Hoppe won his first match last night by defeating Kieckhefer, 40 to 36 in 38 innings.

Redlegs Confident.

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 25—Enthusiasm continued unabated in the Cincinnati Reds' training camp today and Manager Dan Howley was compelled to order his athletes to slow up. Howley has not been talking much, but two facts were apparent: That he counts on Si John to be his pitching ace this season, and that Mickey Heath has first call on the first base job despite the presence of the veterans, Hellman, Hendrick and Grantham.

The second game will match Green Camp and Pleasant, the two winners last Saturday. This game will start at 8:30 p. m. The tournament will be concluded a week from Saturday night with Caledonia playing the winner of the Green Camp-Pleasant battle. Caledonia eliminated Waldo last Saturday.

The tournament is being played to provide a series of post-season clashes among members of the county church league. Waldo recently won the championship. This is the first season for the circuit.

PROMOTERS ANGLE FOR DEMPSEY BOUT

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 25—Negotiations are under way to sign Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, on the annual derby eve fight card here, May 6.

Promoters of Dempsey's fight here Tuesday, in which he whipped Frankie Wine of Butte, Mont., believe the former champion would draw a record crowd. His signing is understood to hinge on prospects of obtaining a suitable opponent.

MINNESOTA STRIVES TO RETAIN CRISLER AS FOOTBALL COACH

Michigan State Also Takes Steps To Keep Crowley at Grid Helm.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 — Two concerted athletic drives were in full swing today—one to keep H. O. "Fritz" Crisler from leaving Minnesota to coach football at Princeton and the other to induce football Coach Jimmy Crowley from leaving Michigan State to accept a similar position at Iowa.

As Crisler returned from Chicago, where he went to study the Princeton offer in peace, student leaders planned to make a personal appeal to him to remain with the Gophers. Even sorority girls were out to try their influence.

At Michigan State, President Robert S. Shaw asked Crowley to withhold acceptance of the Iowa offer for at least another 48 hours.

Meanwhile, formal announcement was anticipated from Princeton as to Crisler's rejection or acceptance. Some of his friends were certain that he would accept not only because he wasn't exactly satisfied at Minnesota but because of a reported salary of $12,500 a year.

Unlike Crisler, Crowley was reported to be fully satisfied at Michigan State. Iowa is known to have offered him more money but Michigan State may meet that—a move almost certain to keep him there.

The football coaching situation at Wisconsin still was in the air. With spring practice only a few weeks off, nothing definite was in sight as to a successor to Coach Glen Thistlethwaite.

STOCK MARKET DRIFTS IDLY

Break of Auburn Causes Uneasiness on Big Board.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—The stock market drifted idly today, with a succession current of selling apparently occasional ripples of

A wide break in Auburn, and the general list so little professional buying was encountered for a time, but selling broke out in some volume after

Auburn opening at 100, Auburn sank to a new low for 1932 at 98, recovered moderately.

During the morning rally, some minor issues showed gains of a point or so, and some leaders sold up fractionally, but by early afternoon, American Telephone was off 2 points net and issues down a point or more included U. S. Steel, General Electric, American Can, New York Central, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Dupont, Westinghouse Electric and Alaska Juneau. General Motors and Radio sagged fractionally under fairly active selling.

In the main, the market continued to reflect tardiness of business pickup.

One of the latest unconfirmed unofficial explanations for the weakness of Auburn was that the Wrigley estate was planning to sell some of its holdings, and that in the meantime market sponsors had withdrawn support.

Important banking interests in Wall street remained moderately optimistic over the outlook for the latter part of the year, pointing to strengthening of the banking structure through the Reconstruction Corp. and the Glass-Steagall bill, and the gradually overcoming of currency hoarding, as providing a solid basis for eventual recovery.

The money market remained about stationary, although the impression persists that money rates are going to come down, as indicated by the action of the bond market. That new financing is still difficult, however, was apparent in Associated Gas announcement of an offering of medium-term "baby bonds" bearing the high interest rate of 8 per cent.

GRAIN PRICES GET SETBACK

Weakness of Liverpool Quotations Influences Market at Chicago.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—Grain prices underwent an early setback today, influenced by weakness of Liverpool wheat quotations and by New York stock market declines. A further increase of 5 per cent in the French quota of foreign wheat permitted to millers was virtually ignored. Opening ¼@⅝ lower, wheat afterward sagged further. Corn also started ⅛@¼ off and continued to recede.

Failure of the Liverpool wheat market today to respond to side of the Atlantic gave a decided side of the tlantic gave a decided check to bullish enthusiasm here. Price declines at Liverpool were associated with forecasts of continued large shipments of wheat from Argentina. Absence of fresh speculative buying in Chicago was a feature, rather than unusual pressure to sell.

Moderate rallies after early downturns in wheat accompanied announcement that wheat exports from the Black Sea region, including South Russia, amounted to only 344,000 bushels this week, compared with 616,000 a year ago. There were also advices that in southwest Kansas, southeast Colorado and northwest Oklahoma, a territory which produced 70,000,000 bushels of wheat last year, the present outlook was but for 45 per cent of a crop Conditions in northwest Kansas and in the Texas panhandle were reported as less unfavorable, although far below last year. Corn and oats were bearishly affected by big receipts of corn here, 347 cars.

Provisions duplicated steadiness of hog values.

GROVE AND WALBERG CONTINUE HOLDOUTS

By The Associated Press

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 25—Connie Mack has scored one victory in his holdout war by reaching a salary agreement with Rookie Pitcher Merritt Cain, but has yet to pierce the armor of Rube Walberg and Lefty Grove.

Walberg and Mack had a talk but it wasn't about money. Connie declared before he turned back to supervising the daily drill. Grove also nods to his boss when they meet but they have not yet discussed salary.

STRIBLING ANXIOUS FOR KNOCKOUT WIN

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—"Pa" Stribling has instructed his fighting son, W. L., to go after a knockout and nothing less when he tangles with Ernie Schaaf, hard-punching Bostonian, in their 10-round battle tomorrow night.

"My boy's future depends on the result of this match and a mere decision victory will not be satisfactory to us," the father-manager said. "A knockout victory would elevate W. L. to third ranking among the heavyweights, a spot that would enable him to harrass Sharkey and Schmeling.

Schaaf has exactly the same battle plan mapped out. He expects to outweigh Stribling by 20 pounds, scaling around 208 to Strib's 188.

The successive victory mark for a girl's team was 75 up to the end of the 1930-31 season. It was made by the East Rutherford, N. J. High school squads over a span of five years. They scored 2,806 points to 1,646 for the opponents.

On March 6, 1930, the lowest of low scores was made, 1-0. The Homer team, playing in an Illinois district tournament, made one point on a free throw early in the game. No further scores were made.

Miss Helen Fox of the St. Scholastica academy of Fort Smith Ark., scored 120 points in a game against Fort Smith High. She made 60 goals. Her team won 140-2.

The biggest paid attendance for basketball was 18,000. That happened in Madison Square Garden on Jan. 9 1931, when six college teams met in a triple header for the unemployment fund. Receipts were $21,000.

Basketball is supposed to be a game of modern creation. Dr. James A. Naismith created it in 1891, while connected with the Springfield Y. M. C. A. But those who have been rousting around in Mayan ruins think a game very similar was played in a time before the Christian era.

A fair sized enclosure was discovered, about the size of a big gymnasium. At each end, high up on the walls, were hoops. If a net had been placed under them they would have been ideal cages for a game of basketball.

It has been estimated that more than 2,000,000 girls, boys and men play basketball in the U. S. A. The game is very popular in Canada and has a huge following in all parts of the world.

MARION ST. MARY'S BEATS KENTON FIVE

The St. Mary's church basketball team of Marion defeated the strong Kenton K. of C. team last night on the Kenton court, 28-16. St. Mary's led almost all of the game and played one of the best games of the season.

Art O'Keefe was high scorer for the Marion five with nine points. Ballenger followed with seven.

ALL RIGHT, DAZZY

You're Just One of the Boys So You'll Have To Work.

By The Associated Press

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 25—Figuring that a lot of his prestige as a manager may depend upon his handling of such temperamental stars as Dazzy Vance, Max Carey, Brooklyn pilot, says he plans to treat the dazzler "just the same as any other pitcher."

"There will be no stars on our team," Max explained just after he and Vance had agreed on salary terms, "just ball players." Vance will work my way and my way only. When I consider him fit to pitch he will pitch regardless of how much rest he has had. Naturally, he will have rest between games, but he must take his turn with the rest of the pitchers."

SETS NEW CAPITAL RECORD

By United Press

PITTSBURGH. — Pilot Russell Mossman, flying a Lockheed passenger plane from Chicago to Washington, has set a new record of 61 minutes for the Pittsburgh to Washington leg of the flight.

TICKET SALES GOOD FOR BENEFIT SHOW

Reports on the sale of tickets for the benefit picture, "The Man Who Played God," to be sponsored Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ohio theater by the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs, indicate that the organization will realize generous returns on their efforts, it was announced today by Mrs. James R. Smith, finance chairman.

The picture stars George Arliss whose roles in "Disraeli," "Old English," "The Green Goddess" and other films, have made motion picture history. The story is by Governor Morris. In the supporting roles are Violet Heming, Ivan Simpson, Louise Closser Hale, Andre Luget, Donald Cook, Oscar Appel, William Janney and several other equally splendid actors.

Montgomery Royale, played by Arliss, is born to wealth, culture and luxury and is a musical genius. Two frends of his own circle are in love with him, one a widow with whom he was in love before she married another and the other a young girl who is infatuated by his greatness and music. The great musician is deafened by a bomb hurled by anarchists when he is playing for the king in Paris and the affliction causes him to lose all faith in life and friends. Through his secretary he learns to bring gladness to others and supreme happiness to himself.

GOITRE NOT A DISEASE

It has been brought to light by scientific research that goitre is not to be treated as a disease but as a condition due to other bodily disturbances.

Dr. A. A. Rock, Dept. L2, Box 737, Milwaukee, Wis., a prominent Goitre Specialist of 30 years' experience has perfected a different method of treatment that has proven unusually successful. This same treatment is now being used by goitre sufferers all over the country with splendid results.

The Doctor states that Goitre is a condition which grows worse with neglect and recommends immediate attention no matter how small the growth may appear. He strongly opposes needless operations. Dr. Rock is the author of a copyrighted book that tells how anyone may now treat their goitre with his method. He has published this book at his own expense and will send a copy free to anyone interested. Write him today.—Adv.

DANCER STARTED ON CAREER BY HUEBNER IS COMING TO OHIO

Hal LeRoy, dancing star in Ziegfeld's Follies, who will appear in his first short picture, "The High School Hoofer," at the Ohio theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was started on his career by J. J. Huebner, manager. Huebner was manager of the Twin Cities theater in Cincinnati when LeRoy, just a kid with a great desire to dance, hung around the theater on amateur nights, begging for just a chance. One night he was given this chance and weekly after that was an amateur night feature, dancing for no salary, just the love of it. Ziegfeld's scouts saw this young man's clever, eccentric dancing and signed him for this year's "Follies." LeRoy, known in Cincinnati as Leroy Schotte, is one of the hits of the show. He's only 19 now and a Broadway success

Theft Becomes Rustling when Rodeo Is Victim

The theft of a hog from a Marion county farm would be called stealing. But if one is taken from the "ranch" of the King Bros. rodeo near Mt. Victory in Hardin county, it would be called rustling.

At least such a practice would be called rustling in the language of the rodeo veterans, it was disclosed when Col. Jack King, head of the rodeo, visited the office of Sheriff C. C. Fye.

"What would you do if someone rustled your stock?" a deputy sheriff was asked. "Give them 'border' justice or take them before the courts?"

The deputy was inclined to favor the courts.

Inquiry disclosed that a large hog had been stolen from the rodeo's "ranch." Several hundred pounds of corn also have been taken at various times. The rustlers have paid repeated visits to the winter quarters.

The rodeo staged one of the principal entertainments at the 1931 Marion county fair. It will start its spring season March 26 by staging an indoor show for the Burroughs newsboys foundation March 26 in Boston, Mass. The first outside show will be given June 1.
